Part of County Study 23 Are Named To Crime Unit

A 23-member Ulster County Crime Commission has been named by Charles Relyea, chairman of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, pursuant to a resolution presented at the last meeting of the Board by Supervisor Joseph Martorana, (R), Plattekill.

Purposes Listed
The purpose of the commission is to study crime and conditions which give rise to crime in Ulster County, and to make recommendations for the prevention and better control of crime and the administration of justice, and possibly to recommend the modification of Criminal law.

In suggesting that a County Crime Commission be named to study the matter, Supervisor Martorana noted that there has been a large increase in the incidence of crime throughout Ulster County, "particularly participation by young people."

Complimenting the State, County, Local Police and Law Enforcement agencies in Ulster County for "exemplary" performance in the search for, capture and handling of criminals, Supervisor Martorana said that recent Supreme Court decisions which "have and the effect of educating the criminal as to his rights have injured police work and are a handicap to law enforcement."

In addition to the coddling of criminals by recent court rulings, there also exists conditions in Ulster County which breed crime," Martorana charged.

This increased crime in Ulster County has become a matter of serious public concern which warrants united and concerted effort by public officials to objectively study the problem, Martorana charged is asking that a County Crime Commission be named to study and assist in meeting the challenge.

Serve Without Pay
Members of the Crime Commission will serve without compensation except that they shall be reimbursed for all actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duty. The board made $1,000 available from the General Contingency Fund for the administration and operation of the Crime Commission.

300 Men Save Girl Infant In Texas Well

VOTAW, Tex. (AP) — Tiny Theresa Fregia was lifted to safety in a bold, precision-like rescue early today, 8 hours and 55 minutes after she tumbled 28 feet into an abandoned water well.

The 2-year-old girl was sobbing and smeared with red clay as rescue workers Ransom, Bill of Houston brought her from the chilly depths of the narrow well at 2:25 a.m.

A loud cheer went up from more than 300 workmen who had labored for hours to save the child.

Theresa was placed on a stretcher, put in an ambulance and rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Beaumont.

Appears Unhurt
Darlene Wolf, nursing supervisor of the emergency room, said the girl appeared to be "in good condition when she was brought in. There were a few abrasions on her tummy."

She said Theresa would undergo a complete examination by a pediatrician.

A giant drilling rig from Houston reached the scene in this small southeast Texas town at 1 a.m. and workers began sinking a parallel shaft next to the 10-inch diameter well in which she was trapped.

The massive machine bored a hole 30 inches across. When its head reached a level slightly below that of the girl, Bill was lowered by rope at 2:20 a.m.

He called for a shovel and a sledge hammer and chiseled through the old concrete wall casing of the well.

Snow May Be Year-Round Problem to Ulster Towns

Removal Funds Are Hit Hard by Storms

By RON WILSON
Freeman Staff Writer

Will snow be a year-round problem to Ulster County residents this coming year?

The answer is probably—not definitely—nay . . . but not for the seasonal reason that's expected.

For the weighty burden of snow could still come to rest on taxpayers exactly where it is heaviest—in the pocketbook.

Such is already the case in Dutchess County's Town of Poughkeepsie, where solons learned Wednesday night that snow removal efforts have raced way past the $90,000 budgeted for the year.

Could Borrow
What to do about it is the question they face right now. It could mean borrowing against next year's tax income—which would probably mean a hike in somebody's taxes.

But does Ulster County face the problem? The Freeman asked this question of some of the county's 20 town supervisors. And we received about as many answers as persons asked.

"These snows have hit us pretty hard," complained Harold VanAken, Republican supervisor for the Town of Denning. "And our funds are getting awfully low. . . I think one more snow would exhaust our funds."

VanAken said his town, on the county's western frontier, "did take into account the fact we usually get more snow than anywhere else," but added this year's extra heavy share surprised everyone.

"In our case, I guess we'll have to take out a budget note against next year," VanAken said when reminded that November and December remain ahead. "We have little choice because people must be able to get around."

Most Optimistic
Other Ulster County towns ranged somewhere this side of the gloomy forecast in the Town of Denning. But the most optimistic view was aired by Democratic Supervisor George Majestic, of the Town of Gardiner.

"We won't have any problem," he declared. "We still have an unexpended balance from our 1966 accounts."

Referring to Poughkeepsie's problem, Majestic declared, "I can't understand how this could happen. I believe all town supervisors are obligated to have a 'safety valve' such as we have for snow or for similar emergencies."

"In our little town we have a contingency (emergency) fund of $2,000 and I would think the much larger Town of Poughkeepsie would have an even larger one."

Poughkeepsie's budget did include a contingency fund of $15,000. It turns out they need more. They've already gone over the budget figure and the contingency fund by $1,175.08.

Near-Empty
Another town facing a near-empty snow removal bucket is

By BEN THOMAS
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) —

A three-judge panel ruled in a preliminary hearing Friday that wealthy retired business leader Clay L. Shaw should become the first man to stand trial concerning the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

In ordering the trial for Shaw on a charge of conspiracy to murder the president, Judge Bernard J. Bagert said at the conclusion of the four-day hearing, "This court finds sufficient evidence has been presented to establish probable cause that a crime has been committed."

Birthday Gift
The ruling came on Shaw's 54th birthday.

The decision was a first-round victory for gun-toting Jim Garrison, this town's 6-foot-6 district attorney, Garrison startled the world a month ago with a statement that he had "solved" the Kennedy assassination.

Spent Only $800
"It's interesting to note," he added, "that last year — for the whole year — we spent only $800."

Convenient for no one, the heavy snows came closest to being so for Town of Rosendale residents. According to Supervisor Louis Gerard DeFelicis (R) the town has a sort of "built-in" buffer zone.

"This is the last year we'll be paying on the town garage," DeFelicis explained. "And that means next year we'll have an extra $4,000 — plus the interest — in our budget, even without hiking the tax rate one mill."

"So even if we would have to borrow against the coming year's budget — which I'm almost positive — we'd be in good luck."

Powell Will Stay In Bimini; Fears Riots in Harlem

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell has canceled his plan to go to New York Sunday, but he says reluctance to trigger civil commotion, not fear of arrest, led him to remain in voluntary exile.

"I want to go back but not if it means violence and bloodshed and my people tell me it would mean violence and bloodshed," Powell told newsmen Friday.

An aide said Powell, 59, probably would stay on Bimini, his fishing and relaxing spot off the Florida coast, at least until April 4 when a court hearing in Washington is set on the Harlem preacher-politician's suit to regain the congressional seat he held for 22 years before the House excluded him.

In New York a sheriff has a warrant for Powell's arrest on a criminal contempt charge stemming from a libel suit he lost. Powell, who could get up to 10 months in jail, has said that if would make arrests, and would obtain convictions.

Garrison, unorthodox and district attorney, took an unusual step in asking for the preliminary hearing — a tactic usually resorted to by defense lawyers.

The next step: "I will file a bill of information," Garrison drewled to newsmen shortly after the announcement of his decision. He would not say when the action would be taken.

Arraignment and trial came afterward. No dates were set.

Selects Date, Time
"The district attorney selects the date and time a person will be tried," said Judge Bagert, who had asked two of his fellow Criminal District Court judges to sit with him at the preliminary hearing because of its importance.

The state has six years to prove this case," said defense attorney William Wergmann, in his impassioned plea to the court to throw out the charges.

After the decision, Bill Garrison, chief investigator for Garrison's office, told newsmen: "We won. If we had needed more goods we would have brought them in."

Perry Raymond Russo, 25, was Garrison's star witness. Russo, a Baton Rouge insurance salesman, told the court he was present in the New Orleans apartment of David W. Ferrie in mid-September 1963 and heard Lee Harvey Oswald, Shaw and Ferrie plotting to assassinate Kennedy.

The plan, Russo testified, involved "triangular cross fire," diversionary shooting, a possible flight to Mexico and Cuba, the sacrificing of one man as a scapegoat to permit the others to escape.

Only One Alive
Of the three alleged conspirators, only Shaw, who stepped down as managing director of the International Trade Mart here 16 months ago, is alive. Oswald was shot fatally by Jack Ruby, in the Dallas police station two days after the Nov. 22, 1963 assassination of Kennedy.

Ferrie, former airlines pilot with a homosexual record, was found dead in bed last Feb. 22. The coroner ruled his death resulted from natural causes — an "aneurysm of a blood vessel in the brain."

Shaw, a rugged 6-foot-2, gray-haired man with erect military bearing, was calm and stoic when the decision was read.

Deepening lines in his face and bloodshot eyes, however, showed the strain he has been under since his arrest March 1.

Termed Fantastic
When arrested, Shaw called Garrison's charge "fantastic." He denied having any part in a conspiracy and said, "I am completely innocent of any such charges."

The Warren Commission found that Oswald was the assassin of Kennedy, but the New Orleans judges refused to admit the commission's report as evidence in the hearing.

"This report is fraught with hearsay. Hearsay four or five times removed," Judge Bagert said Wednesday in announcing the 2-1 vote on rejecting the commission's findings.

Garrison produced two witnesses who linked Shaw and Oswald. New Orleans born ex-Marine who defected to the Soviet Union, then returned after three years.

Oswald, the Warren report documented, was in New Orleans from early April 1963 until Sept. 25, 1963.

Fingers Shaw
Vernon Bundy, 29, an admitted narcotics addict, walked over to Shaw in court Friday and put his hand over the accused's head, identifying him as the man he saw with Oswald here on the Lake Pontchartrain seaway.

Neither Bundy nor Russo testified before the Warren Commission. They were not questioned by federal agents in the case, either.

U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsay Clark said Shaw was investigated by the FBI and cleared of any part in the assassination. Shaw said earlier this month he was not aware of any FBI probe of his activities.

Ferrie gave a statement to the FBI shortly after the assassination. Garrison had arrested him briefly three days after the slaying in Dallas.

No Evidence
The Warren Commission said it had found no evidence that Oswald was involved with any person or group in a conspiracy. "Because of the difficulty of proving negatives to a certainty the possibility of others being involved, cannot

Rosendale, Ellenville Contests Highlight Five Village Elections Slated Tuesday

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
Freeman Staff Writer

Candidates for political office in Ulster County's five incorporated villages are making the rounds of their bailiwicks this week getting what politicians want and need most—exposure to the public eye.

From after dinner speeches to club meetings of all types, to street corner discussions and on to debates from unseen soap boxes everywhere, they're out and around and stumping for their candidacy in next week's local elections.

Those elections will lure voters to the polls this coming Tuesday in the Villages of New Paltz, Ellenville, Rosendale, Pine Hill and Saugerties. Voting attractions will run the gamut from elections in which there will be no contests whatsoever and in which only unopposed incumbents are entered to controversial battles boasting two or more slates of candidates.

Saugerties, which in recent years has fielded only one political party (the Village Party), will have four incumbent office holders seeking reelection, which can only mean that the results are foreordained. Approximately 2,000 persons are eligible to vote there, all being duly registered—and only half a dozen new but, with no contests slated, the turnout at the polls is not expected to attract that large a number.

Present Saugerties mayor, Cornelius M. Cox, has the race for that post all to himself and is assured in advance of reelection. So, too, are the three incumbent trustees, who are unopposed: Gregory A. Mulstay, Donald R. McCaig and Maurice L. Clements, who will be automatically returned to their seats on the Village Board for another two years.

Saugerties once had an Independent Party but it dropped out of the fray some years ago. Balloting in Saugerties will be by voting machine and the election Tuesday has been set from 12 noon to 8 p. m. in the Office of the Village Clerk, Municipal Building.

Likewise, there are no visual changes to upset the local scene in the ski paradise of Pine Hill. The people there are so well satisfied with their incumbent mayor and trustee that the caucuses of both local parties placed their names in nomination and no other office seekers will be pitted against them.

As a crowd pleaser, present mayor, Bernard Wadler, is backed for reelection by boosters of the Union Party and the Republican Party. Incumbent trustee, Leonard Van Valkenburg, was also named to succeed himself by both Pine Hill parties for a two-year term, the same length of time for which Wadler will be reelected.

Pine Hill Hopes
Pine Hill voters go to the polls Tuesday from 12 noon to 9 p. m. in the Fire Hall building on Main Street.

The political scene in Rosendale is not so quiet. There, more than a little electricity charges the air and a lot of it comes from the kite string run up by Joseph Reid, Democratic candidate for mayor. All the color of an old style campaign has been injected into this year's election by Reid and his running mate, Joseph LaFera, candidate for village trustee. Charges and counter-charges involving a new water supply for the village and reported inequities in the assessment of properties there have widened the schism between Democrats Reid and LaFera, both presently serving as trustees, and their Republican and Independent Party opponents, William P. Curran, candidate for mayor, and Mrs. Harriet Mulligan, present village clerk who seeks election as trustee.

In this battle of opposite styles, Curran, an attorney, has charged Reid with "insincerity" and Reid, long a flamboyant figure on the Rosendale political scene, fights back by making the accusation that "glaring inequities" exist in the village.

More than any other village election this year, this one has been fought heatedly across the pages of area newspapers in recent weeks. Curran suggests wryly that Reid should step down from his position as trustee of the Fire Department since this, coupled with the fact that he is a village trustee, constitutes conflict of interest. He adds that Reid stays on only to "maintain his power." Reid answers with a supercilious smile and demands and gets a state audit of Rosendale's books.

Curran yells "foul" and says the audit is a costly and unnecessary expense to the state for "political motives" on the part of Reid and LaFera.

Race Worth Watching
It's the usual small town political ballyhoo with all the old, tired, familiar, well-used clichés. Standard, too, is the mud-slinging, although both sides originally promised there would be none of the nastiness this brings. Curran in his "high level" campaign, however, hints that perhaps Reid should not be receiving disability from the Federal government and wonders how his disability occurred and what his condition was at the time. One almost wonders if he would like photographs published of the scars. He questions Reid's right to hold a retail beer license and serve as a public official at one and the same time. Reid and his backers predict the state audit will turn up some pork barrel shenanigans and besmirch Curran because his wife has removed herself and their three children from his home.

Still, with Arthur Mulligan stepping down as mayor of Rosendale, Tuesday's race there is worth watching—and it's anybody's guess how the results will tally up. Democrats boast they are more united than at any time in the past 20 years behind Reid—but Curran has the blessing of Mulligan and Town of Rosendale Supervisor Gerald DeFelicis. LaFera could have an edge as an incumbent but Mrs.

And Jesus entered into Jerusalem..."

St. Mark 11, 8:11

Thus in a few short sentences St. Mark gives us a picture of the first Palm Sunday: Jesus triumphantly entering into Jerusalem but knowing full well the trial that was ahead of him. He was led and followed by the faithful. How many would retain that faith in the week to come? Palm Sunday is not only a day of triumph but also a day of questioning and reevaluating. Is the power of our faith strong enough to withstand the shock of a personal betrayal, a personal Calvary? We see around us throughout the world many who have that power.

has had its dire problems. No period of history but what has had its difficulties that not only seemed insurmountable but also cast their dark and ominous shadows over the minds and hearts of men.

We need to recognize the fact that life never has been a bed of roses. Always there have been uncertainties and frustrations. These are nothing new. Our problems indeed are momentous. Some of them seem beyond solution. We wonder sometimes how there can be any basis for hope. But we do well to keep things in perspective and remind ourselves that always it has taken courage to live well, and a true dedication to high ideals to keep life pure and noble; and a faith in something more than earth has to offer to inspire creative effort and keep lives and societies from going stale.

Being careful not to give the impression that we would belittle the very serious aspect of our age, still it is important, by way of establishing and maintaining perspective, to keep in mind that ours is not the only period of history when there have been discouragements.

"It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are solely tried, and are yet to be tried even more sorely in coping with the vast and disturbed relations with China. Of our own troubles (in the U.S.) no man can see the end. . . . The very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of wide spread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue calamity."

The above quoted paragraph is not from some contemporary writer, but appeared in "Harper's Weekly" in 1857. In 1790 William Millerforce said: "I dare not marry; the future is so dark and unsettled." In 1800 William Pitt said: "There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair." In 1836 Ben- jamin Disraeli said: "In industry, commerce and agriculture, there is no hope." And the Duke of Wellington on his death bed in 1851 said: "I thank God that I am spared the ruin that is gathering around us."

Full Holy Week Program Slated At Fair Street

Palm Sunday morning at 7 o'clock, the Kingston Area Council of Churches' Protestant Men's Communion Service will be held at the Fair Street Reformed Church, immediately followed by breakfast in the church parish room. Guest speaker at the breakfast will be an active Baptist lay-leader and atomic engineer from General Electric in Schenectady, David Nelson.

Two regular services will be held at the church 9:30 and 11 a. m. both concluding with the traditional prayer of the palms. During the singing of the last hymn, children of the church will distribute palms to those present at worship. The office for the Sacrament of Infant Baptism will be read at the 11 o'clock service. Special music by the junior choir will be Thee Holy Father We Adore and by the senior choir, Lord Hosanna in the Highest.

Maundy Thursday morning at 9:30, women from local and Classis Churches will be meeting for their fifth annual White Breakfast at Fair Street Church, and the service of dedication which follows. The service, led by women of the church, is called "White," in a remembrance of Christ, the Light of the World, gathered with His disciples about the Last Supper. In the evening of Maundy Thursday, the Sacrament of Holy Communion will be observed at 7:30 followed by the traditional Service of Tenebrae. This service, written before 350 A.D. for the use in the primitive Christian church, depicts through the symbolism of light and darkness the desertion of Christ and His Crucifixion. Elders of the church will assist in this service.

On Good Friday from 12 noon until 3 p. m., ministers from area churches will participate in the Kingston Area Council of Churches' service of Meditations on The Cross. Part of this service, from 1-3 will be broadcast over radio station WGHQ. The service is a tradition in Kingston since 1944. Many people in the area come for the full service, or stop in for what time they may.

All the services are open to the public.

LOVE THAT FORM 1040

Americans may not be aware of it, but each spring they participate in a major historical miracle. Each April they voluntarily surrender to faceless bureaucrats in Washington a substantial portion of their annual incomes.

To be sure, most of them during the intervening year make involuntary contributions by way of payroll deductions. But even here, the withholding tax is a voluntary act since it was voted by elected legislators.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy" is a well-known aphorism, and throughout human history it has been true. In every age, taxation has been a weapon of oppression and a source of corruption. How is it that Americans have devised a system of taxation which its administrator hails as the most efficient and widely supported the world has ever known?

According to Sheldon S. Cohen, commissioner of Internal Revenue, the fundamental honesty of the American taxpayer is the key. Last year the government indicted fewer than 2,000 out of the 102 million taxpayers for fraud. It took in $100 billion voluntarily, as opposed to $3 billion through direct enforcement efforts.

Another reason, says Cohen, is the confidence of the people in the system. They believe that the tax laws are reasonably fair and are being administered honestly and even-handedly.

"We tend to take this compliance for granted," he says, "but it is really quite remarkable. Very few countries, including those in the Western family of nations, can successfully administer a mass income tax."

Actually, it is only since the beginning of World War II that it has become a mass tax. In its first year, 1913, the income tax affected a mere one per cent of the population.

No one likes to pay taxes; no one ever will. But Americans have come closer to liking it than any other people on earth. Perhaps it is because what they really like is the kind of country their money buys.

The American timetable to get a man on the moon has been delayed by the fire that killed three astronauts recently. Barring further accidents, Wernher von Braun, space scientist, says the United States could make a manned landing on the moon in 1970. Science pauses, it never stops, until it attains its goal.

Rep. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio has come up with an idea that will give law enforcement officers of the country the equivalent of a salary raise and should help recruit replacements for 50,000 vacancies. He would give them a $2,400 a year tax allowance for income tax purposes. That's the equivalent of four more $600 deductions each and should be an attractive recruiting magnet.

Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, New York State commissioner of health, says "Nothing is as lethal as cigarettes, nothing kills as slowly and painfully." They are more deadly than the recognized killers—bullets, germs and viruses—put together. Seeing that education is not needed, he wants the Government to set aside enough money for research to find less deadly tobacco.

ARE THE POOR BETTER OFF?

Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Democrat, a maverick whose independence often embroils him with his party, if off on what can be the most embarrassing of his probes. As chairman of a Senate Labor subcommittee, he has launched an investigation to determine whether the poor are any better off for the billions spent on the poverty program.

Much has been made of the poor being involved in the poverty program—of sitting on poverty boards and panels deliberating their state of affairs and advising on how to correct it. Beyond that, Clark wants to know what have been the concrete benefits for the poor and for the community in which they live.

No investigation of the poverty program would be worth much if it did not seek the answer to this paramount question, are the poor poorer or better off as a result of the

Global View

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)

According to Walt W. Rostow, "aggressive and romantic revolutionaries are disappearing from the international scene. Nationalism and economic pragmatism are becoming the dominant forces in the Communist world and the underdeveloped countries."

In the view of President Johnson's influential adviser on national security, this calls for a profound change in American foreign policy.

It is obviously the reason behind the President's current efforts to build bridges to some Communist countries in East Europe.

But is not Rostow a premature optimist? Economic and social changes are indeed taking place in some of the East European countries. In Yugoslavia, for instance, President Tito has embarked on a series of internal reforms that may well end in a substantial liberalization of his regime.

But there is still only one political party in Yugoslavia. Despite Tito's reforms, no one foresees the day when the Communists will relinquish power in Yugoslavia or any other Communist country.

However, Tito is a "corrupt revisionist" seduced by capitalism, in the view of Mao Tse-tung. Aggressive and romantic revolutionaries, still dominate Red China, Fidel Castro's Cuba and most Communist parties in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

They engage in conspiracies and plot insurrections. They still want to remake the world according to Lenin's 50-year-old blueprint.

Despite the optimistic and wishful thinkers, this is also true of Russia's leaders who have never abandoned the idea of the relentless progress of history toward a Marxist-Leninist future.

Leonid Brezhnev, chief of the Russian Communist party, spelled this out clearly at a recent congress in Moscow.

The Communist parties in the capitalist countries "are forging a political army of revolutionaries for class struggles," Brezhnev said. "Communists stand at the head of partisan detachments and underground groups of revolutionaries."

Brezhnev is much subtler than his predecessor, Nikita Khrushchev, who threatened to "bury" the free world. But his ultimate goal is unfortunately the same.

The main result of the dispute between Russia and Red China is that it exposes the real motivating force behind Moscow's long-range policies. It reveals the fallacy of an oversimplified picture of a wholly "peace-loving" Russia as opposed to a "militant" Red China.

The real bone of contention between Moscow and Peking is not whether to fight for revolution, but which is the right moment "to raise the banner of insurrection."

Mao Tse-tung is banking on a spontaneous uprising of the peasant masses. The Russian leaders pin their hope on a scientifically worked-out strategy and the experience of professional revolutionaries with the ability to direct the world "revolutionary process."

It is, of course, a wise policy to take advantage of the conflict in the Red world and to build bridges to some of the Communist countries. But there is as yet no room for Western complacency.

For nearly 10 years, the Soviet leaders have been at some pains, for reasons of strategy, to protest their eagerness for peaceful co-existence with the West. They have carefully muted their long-standing goal for a world Communist revolution.

But please, Mr. Rostow, do not believe that Moscow will fail to encourage the "aggressive and romantic" revolutionaries "to boldly raise the banner of armed revolt at the opportune moment" in any part of the world susceptible to Communist infiltration.

Your Dental Health

Removable or Fixed Braces
Decision for Own Dentist

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My problem is buck teeth. I am in my 20s and ashamed to wear braces. I wouldn't mind wearing them at night, though, if that would help. What would you suggest?

A—Removable appliances are often used to straighten teeth, and they can be worn at night. It's impossible to know whether this technique could help you; your orthodontist would have to make the decision. In many foreign countries removable teeth straightening devices are used in preference to fixed braces.

But before you do anything rash, remember Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and her classic buck teeth. She probably always hated them and longed to have nice straight teeth. They were finally knocked out in an auto accident and replaced with those "nice straight ones." But she was never quite the same after that. Those beautiful buck teeth were an important part of her charm.

Q—What can I do to force my boy, 5, to give up his pacifier? He won't go to bed without it.

A—I hope you don't do anything about it except give him T.L.C.—tender loving care. Most authorities say it's perfectly all right to use pacifiers as long as they are not sugar-coated, honey-dipped or filled with maple syrup. This can cause decay.

Pacifiers do not seem to cause irreparable harm, whereas forcibly depriving a child of this feeling of pleasure, comfort and security could produce worse habits, and much more serious problems.

Q—I always thought children didn't have to start brushing their teeth until they were three to five years old. Now some say to start at two years. Which is right? It would be some joke to try to get my 2-year-old to brush by herself.

A—As soon as your child gets teeth, those teeth will collect food debris, and they must be cleaned. At a young age, an easy and efficient method is to wipe the teeth with cotton swabs. When they get older (there's no set age), encourage them to brush, and help them if necessary.

Children will mimic their parents. If they see you brush they'll want to do so, also. Two years of age isn't too young for some children.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

anti-poverty war? A lot of people want to know, among them the taxpayers whose billions are supposed to be spent.

There is a general feeling among the public that the poverty war has become the biggest boondoggle of all time. The only people it has helped are the middle class civil servants who got on the public trough and used much of the money for their own better living, not that of the poor.

Clark promises a comprehensive, no-holds-barred investigation. The public welcomes it. The key questions should be: how many jobs were created, how many families saved from breaking up, how many trained for useful work, how many saved from juvenile delinquency? All should head up to the ultimate question, has poverty begun to be eliminated, or is it as bad as ever, and if so, how were our billions spent?

How to Succeed in Politics Without Really Trying

DO YOU REMEMBER

By Sophie Miller

I was given The Log, Spring 1966 edition of the Mystic Seaport, Mystic, Conn., published by the Marine Historical Assn. Inc. It is a non-profit organization and has grown into a famous Marine Museum, which our Kingston Point Park might still yet become. Many of my readers have visited the Mystic Seaport and have told me about it. The Brinkerhoff ferry, after being retired from the Hudson River went to Mystic. In Kingston, our problem now seems to be whether in our parks, schools, homes, streets — and of course Forsyth Park with zoo — that someone should be in charge of guarding them against crime and vandalism . . . and it needs to be around the clock. Forsyth Park, large as it is, and hilly, could have a man with a Jeep and a smart dog, just checking. No doubt Kingston will come to that, throughout the park system, to save plumbing, sheds, etc., from being destroyed nightly. It may seem strange, but it is often the children of today's destroyers for whom these parks are being saved and built.

The Sixth Ward and Rondout section is of course emptying out hurriedly this March of 1967 and only time will tell who will move back. A few incidents came up which brought a thought to me. We had various concerns down here, like the Van Winkle Bedding Co., which used to be at 46 Hasbrouck Avenue. The Liberty Printer, who was at Broadway and West Union Street. Former customers who haven't been here for sometime — like one from Woodstock who was astounded with Urban Renewal destruction of this section in such a short time. He asked for one of these concerns. "Where did they go?"

Perhaps a list of those who were here were made in big letters and placed somewhere so they can be found when needed. This removal of places and people has become one strange puzzle, long to be remembered.

The Mystic Seaport Log has letters from readers and one concerns Prof. Benjamin Silliman, who made a trip to England prior to 1820 to buy scientific apparatus for the new Yale University school, later Sheffield Scientific School. He mentioned the trip in an account, in which he wrote that it was so rough for a time that the passengers had to eat on the floor with all the food on the floor. When the ship would fall in a wave all the passengers and food would slide with it. This same Prof. Silliman made another trip in the late 1860s or early 1870s and was astonished at the palatial fittings of the ship, a steamer by that time, and remarked on the lavish use of mirrors in the passages. Fulton had made all that possible, I feel men are put on earth to help one another and create and invent as intelligence is given him, not to destroy what others have created. But of course this year of 1967 and in several previous years destruction seems part of the powers that be, and of those who roam the streets. To bulldoze marble fireplaces, expensive storm windows and doors, and bluestone etc., at the taxpayers' expense, would seem incredible to the Colonists who gave this first capital of New York a start.

With the Erie Canal ship coming out July 4th another item in this same letter tells about a young couple who went west, as Horace Greeley advised, by "Fast Packet" shortly after the Erie Canal was opened. It took them 10 days, from Albany to Buffalo, which the letter figured was about one and a half miles an hour.

after the excessive inventories are worked off.

Slowed Sharply

The Commerce Department reported that the increase in business inventories slowed sharply in January. The $950-million rise in January brought stocks of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers to $136.52 billion. The increase in December was $1.71 billion.

Martin told the committee he supported Johnson's proposals for restoration of the investment tax credit and enactment of a six per cent surcharge on income taxes. He said the tax increase will be necessary because of the anticipated $12-billion deficit in next year's federal budget.

Housing starts declined sharply in February after rising for three consecutive months. The Commerce Department reported that private starts last month were at an annual rate of 1,089,000, down 5.1 per cent from 1,282,000 in January.

Notes Drop

The Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial production dropped substantially during February for the second straight month. The board's index fell to 155.9 per cent of the 1957-59 average from 158 per cent in January and 159 per cent in December.

Unemployment in mid-February held steady for the third successive month at 3.7 per cent of the labor force.

The jobless total increased to 3,183,000 from 3.16 million in January while total employment rose to 72,506,000 from 72.16 million.

Labor Department officials interpreted the stability of the unemployment rate as showing continued strength in economic activity.

Automobile production for the week was estimated at 163,700 passenger cars, up 3 per cent from 158,403 the previous week but down 18 per cent from 199,676 a year ago.

Car sales in the first 10 days of March fell 25 per cent to 193,025 from a record 256,004 a year earlier. Chrysler posted a sales gain of 6.8 per cent while General Motors was down 3.8 per cent. Ford was down 25.4 per cent and American Motors was off 9 per cent.

Steel production during the week declined 2.5 per cent to 2,464,000 tons from 2,528,000 tons the previous week.

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT,
Washington Correspondent,
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — To listen to some of our public figures, the moment is nearly at hand to turn over to the nation's swelling numbers of young people the control of the universities, the economy, and the government.

The young ones themselves are loudly asserting either their claims to such leadership or their total disdain for U.S. society on the ground it is hopelessly false, corrupt, unfeeling and self-deceiving.

The bedazzling statistic which underlies this considerable ferment is bounced off the wall by educators, politicians and others with almost hypnotic regularity — soon the people who are 25 years old and under will amount to half our grand total of 200 million-plus.

Americans generally, captivated always by a national mythology which ascribes to young folk a magic cluster of virtues, seem at times thoroughly intimidated by the sheer force of youthful numbers. Many evidently are more than ready to abdicate.

Yet, some citizens of consequence are daring to remind that more than half the U.S. population is still over 25, that people are living longer than ever, that some of them may have some talent and even a little feeling.

Author Barbara Tuchman, talking not long ago to educators in Chicago, said of the time-tested American adult:

"If at 50 he does not believe that he has acquired more wisdom and informed experience than is possessed by the student at 20, then he is saying in effect that education has been a failure."

Admittedly, in some fields of schooling, the young of today are vastly better prepared than were their counterparts of even a few years ago. Professors at a respected midwestern law school say they are astonished at the rising flood of highly qualified applicants.

But evidence of this sort is not generally overwhelming. Surveys often have shown that students' grasp of history, politics and economics can be very spotty. Their mathematical skills have just been found to be less developed than those of students in other lands.

Many today exhibit a commendable urge to be active but tend to define activism narrowly in terms of protest. Picketing, sitting-in, "confronting" public figures like Defense Secretary McNamara and Vice President Humphrey are among their favored pursuits.

Again, author Tuchman suggests that useful activism is something more — "The courage to be independent and stand up for the standard of values one believes in." She added in Chicago:

"I don't mean the courage to protest . . . or boo Secretary McNamara which, though it may stem from the right instinct, is a group thing that does not require any very stout spirit . . . There is nothing to that . . . I mean, rather, a kind of lonely moral courage . . ."

If protest is not a sufficient response to the ills of war and poverty, then neither is the inward-turning represented by youth flights into the fantasy-world of LSD.

Those who seek such total alienation from U.S. society think they are investing themselves with a kind of nobility, since they believe they are rejecting contamination by the "system" they despise.

But they are eating off the system, living on a pass, while they tell themselves meanwhile that their idealistic purity is unsoiled. They are complaining but leaving to others the hard word that flows from justifiable complaint.

P. O. Box 207
Woodstock, N. Y.
May 16, 1967

Editor, The Freeman:

"Kingston clergy practice a tepid Christianity," Sylvia Day of Woodstock charged as she complained of their timidity in taking an activist role on behalf of peace in Vietnam.

In amplifying her charges, Mrs. Day explained that acting on a request from the world-renowned Fellowship of Reconciliation to encourage local participation of churches, schools and civic groups in a national week-long "Mobilization to End the War" April 10-15, she contacted Harold Van Allen of Hurley, layman chairman of the Kingston Council of Churches.

In a meeting with Van Allen at her home, Mrs. Day outlined the proposed "Mobilization" and prevailed upon Mr. Van Allen to discuss the matter with the Kingston Area Council of Churches at their next meeting. Mrs. Day explained that the Fellowship was a non-political group, was an affiliate of the International Fellowship of Reconciliation, the International Confederation for Disarmament and Peace, and enjoyed a membership of tens of thousands of responsible religious leaders throughout the world. The late Rev. A. J. Muste was one of its most distinguished members.

Van Allen frankly stated that he could not understand why Hanoi did not "accept our peace terms," but he also admitted that he was not entirely familiar with the background of the war. He did promise, however, that he would present the plan for "Mobilization to End the War" to the ministers of the Council.

Although a week had passed since the Council meeting was presumed to have taken place, no word was received from Mr.

Van Allen and Mrs. Day called him. Van Allen explained that the Council had no interest in the plan as a group and suggested that each minister or church should be contacted individually.

Mrs. Day was critical of the local clergy and pointed out to Mr. Van Allen that the Kingston religious leaders appear to be frightened of initiating or encouraging peace activities even though it would seem that Peace is the central tenet of Christianity. She also informed Van Allen that most of the members of the Kingston Area Council of Churches were apparently intimidated by the consistories and trustees of their congregations since in at least two instances ministers who were willing to permit the Ulster County Peace Committee to hold meetings in their churches had to rescind their offers because of the objections by church members.

In bringing the matter to the attention of the Kingston Freeman, Mrs. Day stated that she had hoped that local religious leaders would resist the pressures placed upon them by the members of the churches.

"If we cannot look to the Churches and Synagogues for guidance in the realm of peace, where can we go," Mrs. Day queried. "Certainly the military whose prime interest is war, cannot be expected to alter its position," she continued, and concluded saying, "further escalation of the war will lead to a world-wide conflagration. The Church, by their refusal to state their moral opposition to the war in Vietnam, are guilty equally with those super-patriots who equate peace talk with cowardice."

Mrs. Day urges all those opposing the war and wishing to join the "Mobilization to End the War" to contact her.

Slippery Roads Are Blamed For Several Area Accidents

A 17-year-old Ravena youth was seriously injured at 1:30 a. m. today when the car in which he was a passenger skidded out of control on Route 9W north of West Cossackie and crashed into a utility pole.

Leeds State Police said Benjamin Trosciar, of Ravena, was ejected from the vehicle operated by Vincent Staica, 18, also of Ravena, who escaped serious injury. Trosciar was rushed to Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill.

The youth suffered a fractured femur, massive internal injuries, and extensive lacerations of the body. His condition was listed as poor.

Driver Cited

According to troopers, Staica was driving north on the highway when he lost control of the car as it skidded on a patch of ice, crossed the highway and slammed into a pole. Staica was cited by state police on a charge of driving too fast for conditions.

The summons is returnable at a later date before Justice of the Peace Hugo Scherer of Cossackie.

Two vehicles collided after reportedly skidding on slippery pavement on Tuckers Corners Road, Town of Platekill, at 4:45 p. m. Friday and resulted in injuries to both drivers.

Head-on Crash

Trooper Jerry Henne of Highland said Edna Stewart, 58, Highland, was traveling south and Charles Hand, 76, also of Highland, was driving north when he swerved to avoid a parked car.

The Stewart and Hand vehicles both skidded as brakes were applied and collided on the center of the road. The woman sustained a laceration of the lip. Hand received lacerations of the forearm and left hand. Trooper Thomas Crowley investigated.

In Kingston, two persons were slightly injured in one of four accidents Friday, three of them blamed on icy street conditions.

Injured were Bernice Brown, 25, of Glenier Lake Park, who suffered injuries to the forehead and right knee and Ronald G. Cantwell, 32, of 89 Prince Street.

be established categorically." The court released Shaw on his present $10,000 bond which Shaw posted several hours after his March 1 arrest by Garrison.

Russo said he knew Oswald as "Leon Oswald" and Shaw as "Clem Bertrand."

Russo admitted he had been hypnotized three times while being interrogated by Garrison's aides.

Dr. Esmond Fatter, a physician and hypnosis expert, testified Friday he had given Russo a post-hypnotic suggestion "to present the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth and to be calm, cool and collected."

50 Exceptions

Shaw's attorneys filed more than 50 formal exceptions during the hearing, laying the groundwork for possible appeals. The exhaustive testimony on hypnosis and use of sodium pentothal — the so-called truth serum — drew a continuing stream of defense objections.

Such testimony, argued defense attorney F. Irving Dymond, would not be permitted in a trial. He said the prosecution was trying "to slip it in the back door" by getting it into the record of the preliminary hearing.

Transcript of the preliminary hearing automatically goes into the trial record and cannot be looked by the defense.

$1 Billion To Bolster Economy

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration plans to pour more than $1 billion into a sluggish national economy but officials deny a pump-priming operation is underway.

"To say this is pump-priming would present an alarmist image," one key government analyst said today.

He and other government economists said the economy now is able to absorb "a little" more. Later in the year, such spending might contribute to an anticipated buildup of inflationary pressure, they added.

President Johnson's economic report to Congress in January envisioned some federal stimulation of the economy during the first half of this year, the source said.

Some members of Congress contend the administration's January projections of the economy should be revised. But government experts are sticking by the forecast of a slow "first half with a later upswing."

Despite denials of pump-priming, the timing of the administration's announcements has coincided closely with reports confirming economic sluggishness.

President Johnson announced Friday, for instance, that because inflationary pressure had subsided the government would make available another $791 million in deferred funds, including $350 million for highways and $250 million for mortgage aid.

This followed by just one day a Federal Reserve Board report of the second substantial drop in industrial output in as many months.

Johnson asked Congress last week to reinstate the 7 per cent investment tax credit suspended last October as an anti-inflationary tool. This came only one day after a government report projected the first drop in business spending for plants and equipment in four years.

Johnson announced on March 4 that $380 million would be made available for home financing. This week the Commerce Department reported a 15.1 per cent drop in housing starts during February, disrupting three months of substantial gains.

The home building industry was caught last year in a pincer of high interest rates and a scarcity of money. The federal aid is designed to help the recovery which isn't expected to reach full swing until mid-year.

Also this week, the Veterans Administration said it had processed GI insurance dividends totaling $146.69 million. The quiet speedup, however, was described as a money-saving mechanical operation rather than pump-priming.

The current status of the economy was termed "encouraging" by chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board. Martin told the Senate Small Business Committee Friday the economy "has slowed down a little for the moment, but it is by no means stalled."

Martin said he could foresee no reason why the economy wouldn't accelerate in the months ahead, and added present prospects are for "a slow recovery that is much more encouraging than it was a year ago."

Reds Hit Destroyer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. destroyer Stoddard was hit by a North Vietnamese shore battery and took a hole in the side above the waterline but there were no casualties, U.S. military headquarters reported today.

A spokesman said the ship was hit Friday while patrolling along the southern end of North Vietnam, 25 miles northwest of Dong Hoi. He said the Stoddard returned the gunfire and silenced the Communist coastal battery. The hole on her starboard side, 10 inches by 18 inches, was plugged and the ship continued "fully operational," the U.S. Command said.

The Stoddard was the third ship of the U.S. 7th Fleet to be damaged in recent weeks from North Vietnamese coastal guns. Previously the cruiser Canberra and the destroyer Keppler were hit.

damage. The only casualties were aboard the Keppler, which had six wounded.

The second plane lost Friday was a Marine A-1C Skyhawk, which went down for unknown reasons in South Vietnam. The pilot is listed as missing. There have been 162 planes lost in South Vietnam.

A five-inch shell blew up accidentally aboard the Navy destroyer Manley, injuring five sailors. The explosion started a fire which was quickly brought under control and the Manley returned to its station after unloading the five wounded sailors at Da Nang.

Fund Music

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Symphony Orchestra has announced plans to raise $5.5 million in cities where the orchestra tours.

The money would be used for musicians' salaries, the refurbishing of Symphony Hall, including the installation of public elevators, and the reduction of annual deficits.

Expect No Big Decisions From LBJ's Trip to Guam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson embarks tonight on his second trans-Pacific journey in five months — striving once more to emphasize his dedication to the works of peace in Vietnam.

High administration officials insisted they expect no major military decisions to emerge from Johnson's two days of talks in Guam — about 8,250 miles from Washington.

They said the big question instead would be how to advance the political, social and economic development of sections of South Vietnam wrested from Communist control.

Promote Westmoreland

There has been considerable speculation that Johnson might use the occasion of his Guam visit to elevate Gen. William C. Westmoreland to full command of all American forces in Southeast Asia. But officials said they do not expect such a development.

They also said they don't think Westmoreland would choose this occasion to ask for more troops. But they said that was a matter for the general to decide.

The White House said Johnson hoped to take off on his 18-hour, one-stop flight to Guam around midnight after spending all day and evening courting the nation's governors.

Perhaps for security reasons, there was no word on whether Johnson's big jet would make a refueling stop in Alaska or Hawaii. Moreover, nothing was being said here about where Johnson would be quartered on Guam, which is little more than an American military bastion.

To Meet Ky

The President will meet with top American civilian and military leaders based in Vietnam and with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and many of the other generals making up the military junta that holds power in Saigon. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also will be on hand.

Any policy decisions announced after the session, officials here indicated, likely would deal with changes in the Vietnam "pacification" effort — the attempt to claim ground from the Communists and make a start toward enlisting the interest of the inhabitants in "elemental democracy."

One official said the Guam meeting has taken on special importance because of the impending replacement of Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge by Ellsworth Bunker, 72-year old diplomatic trouble-shooter.

Charges Ahead

The two civilian leadership in Saigon on the American side will be reshuffled in the weeks ahead, one top official said. A central point of the Guam talks would be to have "the old team and the new take stock together."

In addition to the Bunker-Lodge shift, Deputy Ambassador William J. Porter will be replaced soon by Eugene Locke, now ambassador to Pakistan. Robert Komer, a Johnson assistant, will move to Saigon to take charge of the pacification program.

A number of American civilian officials at lower levels are in line for rotation to other assignments.

Just why Johnson has decided on such a far-reaching turnover of civilian personnel at this time has yet to be explained.

Nothing Sudden

Officials insisted however, that there would be no overnight changing of the guard — that the new men would be "phased" over a period of weeks. They said the objective was to achieve a smooth transition.

Another big mystery concerns the future of the pacification program.

Asked why Johnson decided to fly all the way to Guam, instead of to Honolulu where he met Ky, Lodge and Westmoreland 13 months ago, one White House source said: "It's a good business-like place. There are no diversions."

He said the talks would be the equivalent of a two-day meeting of the National Security Council.

China Under Gun

As Mao Acts to Restore Control

HONG KONG (AP) — Mainland broadcasts claimed today the Red Chinese army has taken over farms and factories in three more southeastern provinces. If true, it means that Mao Tse-tung has established control of production at gunpoint over a vast area of southern China.

The reports reinforced the conviction among observers of China's bitter internal struggle that the 2.5 million-man army had become the principal instrument of Communist party Chairman Mao's "Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution," a purge of so-called reactionary elements in Chinese life.

Red Guards Failed

It meant, too, that the army was achieving at least some success through Mao's militant civilian Red Guards and revolutionary rebels had failed, through political agitation, propaganda and appeals for faithful adherence to Mao's thought, to win popular support for the purge.

The latest provinces in which Maoist troops were reported to have seized control of agricultural and industrial production are Anhwei and Kiangsi, which border coastal provinces, and Hunan, further inland.

The use of the army is a recent development in the purge, which began last August. Mao originally had counted on the teen-aged Red Guards and older workers to carry it out, but they encountered widespread opposition.

Critical Stage

Further evidence of Mao's turn to the military was the call Thursday for the 200-million-man militia to become more deeply involved in the purge. A Peking broadcast reporting the appeal said the cultural revolution was in a "critical stage."

Reports reaching Hong Kong from travelers from China said the army, at least in Kwantung Province, was doing little work in the factories and on the farms but that the troops were acting mainly as bosses.

The army was reported meeting resistance, both open and underground, from the workers and peasants. The Hong Kong New Life Evening Post quoted an arrival from Canton as saying that in Kwangtung Province "many workers and farmers were working at the point of a gun."

May Back Reuther On Separation

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Skilled tradesmen from 372 local unions of the United Auto Workers were expected today to endorse UAW President Walter P. Reuther's threat to pull the 1.4-million-member union out of the AFL-CIO.

Among resolutions up for adoption at the closing session of the UAW's 12th International Skilled Trades Conference was one urging that a UAW general convention in April give the union's international executive board authority to withdraw the UAW from the AFL-CIO.

The 1,268 delegates representing 200,000 skilled tradesmen shouted approval Friday as Reuther castigated anew the AFL-CIO for what he termed lack of action under President George Meany's leadership.

In a keynote speech, Reuther listed fields in which he said the federation had failed: organizing the unorganized, lending assistance to small unions fighting for a foothold, and involving labor deeper in such movements as civil rights.

Reuther, 59, renewed a charge that the American labor movement is "vegetating" under Meany, 73, but he did not want to pull his union out of the federation.

He said the UAW is "going to do its best" to get action from the AFL-CIO, but added that his union is committed to no time schedule on this. He denied that the UAW already had reached a decision to withdraw.

Reuther, who said earlier his union would sign no new contracts unless they contained a guaranteed annual income, also announced Friday the same applies to any failure to include a substantial wage increase and equal pay for Canadian auto workers.

Current three-year contracts with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler run out Sept. 5. Negotiations on new pacts will begin in early July.

Snow Could

itive we won't — we'd still be okay."

Referring to the year's snow-fall, Delicis did note however, "We got more snow in the last couple of months than we've had in the last couple of years. . . I think our removal costs this year are running about 40 per cent over last year's."

And although this reporter was unable to contact several of this county's supervisors, other towns are apparently in almost-equal solvency regarding snow work. In the Town of Ulster, Republican Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz termed it "good shape"; in the Town of Shadaken, Ralph Bush, Republican supervisor, was equally hopeful; and Lester Davis, Republican from the Town of Olive noted "We have enough to last."

The flexibility of town budgets, which allows monies to be transferred from one account into another, is apparently the balm most frequently being used. Most solons seemingly agreed with Roger Mabie, Esopus Democrat, who described his town's snow funds as "virtually exhausted, but not completely."

"Actually, with the town's budget divided into four sections for highway work, I'm certain we have no problem here. We can always transfer money from one of the other highway sections."

According to Mabie, the Town of Esopus had set aside some $23,000 for snow removal.

In the Town of Woodstock Supervisor William R. West (R) said he hadn't checked the figures following the latest snow fall but said, "I know for a fact that it's going to be a very close year." He said Highway Superintendent William Klementis is "very concerned about this problem."

But optimism is still the key word in most of the towns. Hardenbergh, for instance, "hasn't had much difficulty in maintaining our snow funds," according to Supervisor Bowman H. Owen, a Republican. He said these funds were placed in the "miscellaneous account" and that a like amount was budgeted this year as previous years.

"Sure we have lots of snow," Owen said, "but we've also got plenty of money to handle it."

Charles Reylea, Hurley Republican, was less enthusiastic, although equally optimistic. "Oh we are still in good shape," he said. "We've used more than in other years but I think we have enough money to carry us through."

In Saugerties, the town Superintendent of Highways William R. Brown agreed — with a personal hope that "all this snow ends real soon" — that his town's snow removal ability is "still in business."

"We will be able to keep our head above water," Brown said "if we don't get too much more snow." He noted this does include the major part of next winter since although the budget was passed earlier, "We don't actually get the money until about the end of February."

And so, from all indications, Ulster County will not be burdened by snow this summer. But if the shoe were on the other foot there would be no one to blame but that guy in the mirror. It's like Dutchess County Superintendent of Highways Edgar Petrovits said:

"The public is spoiled. They expect the roads to be as clear in winter as they are in the middle of summer. But if they want to pay for it, it's alright with me."

The Right Thing To Do

By Elizabeth L. Post

COMMON SENSE AND CONSIDERATION REGARDING THE HANDICAPPED

A majority of us have only occasional contact with handicapped people. If we have a cripple, or a deaf or blind person in our home, we become accustomed to the situation, and quickly learn how to act so as to be of the most help to him. This article is devoted to those who meet the handicapped on rare occasions and through lack of knowledge may offer help in the wrong way.

The cardinal rule is: Do not indicate that you are conscious that the person is different from others in any way. A man who has learned to get about on a crutch, a blind person who is holding a good job, or a deaf woman who has mastered the art of lip reading — all of them are proud of their skill and the independence they have achieved. The last thing they want is to be reminded that they are still "different." In situations where people obviously need help — if the man in a wheelchair is faced with getting down a steep step, for instance, of course you may help. But don't just grab the chair and push — ask him politely if he would like assistance and what would be the best way to give it.

The next rule is never to make personal remarks or ask personal questions about a disability. If the handicapped person wishes to discuss his condition, fine, but let him bring it up. It may well be something he is trying to forget or ignore.

Deafness is probably the disability to which we are most frequently exposed. When you are with someone who wears a hearing aid — and I can't stress strongly enough the desirability of these aids for the partially deaf — don't shout. The aid is almost certainly adjusted for a normal voice, and if you raise yours, the effect for him is like someone shouting into the telephone at you. Speak distinctly, but in your normal tone and at a normal rate of speed. Be patient and willing to repeat if necessary. Face him, or in a group, place him so that he can see everyone, because we all tend to lip-read somewhat, and facial expressions help to carry meaning even if one doesn't hear every word.

When your companion is totally deaf, remember that he must see you to "hear" you. Don't come up behind him and speak — you must be where he can read your lips. To attract his attention, tap his arm or shoulder gently. Don't exaggerate your lip movements — he has been trained to read normal movements, and distorted ones may confuse him. Above all, encourage him to join in family and social activities. Persons with severe handicaps tend to withdraw, and a little extra urging and enthusiasm may make them more willing to try to lead a normal life.

The second disability I'd like to discuss is blindness. A blind person's faculties, other than his eyes, are in no way impaired and his interests may be much the same as yours. So treat him exactly as you would anyone else. Talk to him about any subject, including blindness if it comes up, and don't avoid use of the word "see." Blind people use it as much as anyone else. Don't show surprise when he dials a telephone number, lights a cigarette, or dresses himself.

When you see a blind person on a street corner, ask him if he would like your help in crossing, but don't grab his arm without asking first. And then let him take your arm — much more comforting than being shoved along at your pace.

In a restaurant, read him the menu and tell him where he can find the salt and pepper, the sugar, etc.

When he visits your home, lead him to a chair and put his hand on the back or arm and let him seat himself. If he is staying with you, tell him where furniture is, let him feel his way about the part of the house he will be in, and then leave the furniture where it is. Keep doors open or closed, never halfway.

Where there is a blind person in a room you have entered, let him know you are there by speaking to him; if you are a stranger to him, tell him your name. Also tell him when you are leaving, so he won't be left talking to himself.

Finally, if he has a Seeing Eye dog, never attempt to play with, feed, or distract the dog in any way. The safety of the dog's master may well depend on his animal's strict adherence to his training.

In short, the handicapped are people, too. Treat them as you would anyone else. Don't hesitate to disagree, don't ooze excessive sympathy, but use an extra degree of kindness and consideration, and praise for their accomplishments.

Dear Abby . . .

Don't Feel Guilty About Dreams

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with me? I have been happily married for 15 years and we have three lovely children. Every night I dream about a certain man who is a good friend of my husband and mine. He is also married and has a nice family. Abby, I am so ashamed of myself I don't know what to do.

In these dreams he is kissing me and loving me, and we are carrying on something fierce. I don't know if we are married in these dreams or not, all I know is we just go right ahead like there was no right or wrong.

Every time I see this man and his wife I feel so guilty I could die. His wife is such a nice person, and so is he, and my hand to God, he has never even looked sideways at me. What worries me I seem to be enjoying these dreams. Please help me.

CAN'T WAIT TO RETIRE

DEAR ABBY: You need not feel guilty for what you do in your dreams. As long as you don't try to make your dreams come true (in this instance) there's nothing to be ashamed of.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my sister got married. At the reception her husband cornered me and kissed me. Only it wasn't the kind of a kiss a bridegroom usually gives his new sister-in-law. I haven't said anything to anybody, of course, but now when I see him he acts like it never happened, but I can't look him in the eye. What should I do?

PASSIONATELY KISSED

DEAR KISSED: Forget it. He probably has.

DEAR ABBY: A lady signed GRANDMA wrote, complaining because she had grandsons in the service, but a fat, lazy, 22-year-old slob of a neighbor kid sat around doing nothing. He bragged that his hobbies were draft-dodging, eating and sleeping, and said he keeps his blood pressure up on purpose so he can't pass the physical.

She said she wanted to know why fellows like this should be allowed to get away with this.

You said there was probably a lot more wrong with the slob than he admitted, and he was probably covering up with his braggadocio talk, that if he were fit material for the service, they'd have a uniform on him faster than he could say "Vietnam."

Abby, I left the service a year ago, and I have this to say to Grandma: How safe would your grandsons be if they depended on this slob to sound the alarm in case of an attack? Would you want your grandsons to ride in an aircraft this fellow repaired? No Grandma, leave those irresponsible kids at home where they hurt no one but themselves. They don't belong in the military with decent, responsible men like your grandsons.

PAUL W. MARSH (SEATTLE)

DEAR ABBY: Will you please advise me as to the correct way to acknowledge appreciation to a pastor under these circumstances: The pastor gave me much aid and comfort to the family of one who recently passed away. The deceased one had no connection with this pastor or his congregation, but he performed the burial services anyway. Thank you.

KNOWS NOT

DEAR KNOWS NOT: Offer the pastor a gift of money. (Pastor's have bills to pay.) If he declines, ask him if you may make a contribution to one of the many "causes" related to his church.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. (© 1967 by Chicago Trib.-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

New Blanket Introduced

What's new you ask? Here's what's new says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

AQUATHERM is an automatic blanket without wires. The same principle used to regulate the temperature of space suits worn by the astronauts is applied to regulating the temperature in a blanket. Warm water is circulated through a fine network of tiny, tough, watertight plastic tubes. The control for the blanket contains a dial for temperature selection, a water reservoir, a water heating unit and thermostat, and a pump. In operation, the control, which holds approximately two cups of water, warms the water to the proper level as determined by the dial setting and it is then pumped into the tubes in the blanket through two way tubing. It takes approximately thirty seconds for the water to pass through the blanket.

The electric wiring used to heat the control unit is completely isolated from the water supply. There is no wiring in the blanket, so there is no chance of shock. If the control unit runs out of water, an automatic thermostat shuts off the control and approximately eight minutes after, the control will cycle on and off quickly until water is added. The control holds eight ounces of water and the blanket approximately four ounces. Usually, the reservoir needs filling approximately every thirty to fifty days, depending on how frequently the blanket is used.

The temperature of the circulating water cannot exceed 120 degrees F. so it cannot cause scorching or burning. Care is required to protect the tubes. The blanket may be machine washed in lukewarm water for no longer than three minutes. No bleach should be used. It can spin dry, but not be twisted dry or put through a wringer. It may not be dry cleaned.

FOAM BACKING bonded to drapery fabrics provides insulation as well as giving body to the fabric. These will be available to consumers Spring 1967.

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU . . . the traveling clothes dryer, that is! It is a miniature electric clothes dryer weighing about 13 pounds. It holds about two pounds of wet laundry, resembles a portable TV. It may be a boon to families traveling with children.

FINE CHINA AND CRYSTAL will rest easily and safely on non-slip foam backed plastic shelf linings. Yardage can be cut to fit shelves and drawers and just think it is washable.

TEFLON is being wed to fiberglass to reduce the tendency to abrasive wear of fiberglass draperies. It is reported to impart a softer feel. CARE should be taken when washing fiberglass draperies. Wear gloves to protect your hands from the tiny glass fibers. Carefully scrub and rinse the laundry bowl to remove all the glass fibers. If the care directions on fiberglass draperies permit washing in the machine, extra care should be taken to rinse the machine after use. Skin irritations have been traced to fibers of glass left in the machine picked up by undergarments in the next load of laundry to go through the machine.

Hay Fever Yielding a Bit

By Allergy Foundation of America

In the very first place, hay has nothing to do with hay fever. A fever is not one of the common symptoms. Unadulterated misery is.

Get the picture: There are uncontrollable fits of sneezing. The nose runs. The eyes are swollen and exude tears. The roof of the mouth is sore and itchy and the throat as well.

There can be hives on the skin, sometimes, stomach upset, lack of sleep, irritability and headaches.

It's just dreadful as you know even if you've only experienced hay fever second hand.

There are 8 or 9 million Americans that have it in one form or another, during one season or another.

Anything can set it off. Most commonly it comes from tree or plant pollen.

An eerie aspect of this whole mess is that the humans are mere hit-and-run victims of a perfectly ordinary biological process that is taking place in nature.

Pollen is the male germ of a plant, one-half of the union which will produce a new seed and hence a new plant.

When a plant has fancy, perfumed blossoms, insects are attracted and do most of the work of getting pollen and the female germ of the plant together. That's where the bees of the birds and the bees come in.

Homelier types of plants with less alluring blossoms depend on the wind to carry their pollen and they're really loaded, just to make sure. Ragweed pollens, the biggest offenders, are dustlike, 1/2500th of an inch in diameter. They blast off by the zillions.

The reasons why the natural defenses of some persons don't resist these inhaled particles, as they do in others, are still obscure.

On the hopeful side, doctors know that antihistamines which appear to work in the blood stream can give relief as a palliative. Desensitization with small doses of the offender, though still the subject of continued research, is considered the treatment of choice, according to the book, "Allergy," just published by the Allergy Foundation of America.

Air conditioning has proved a boon. Avoidance, of course, is still the best prevention. There's not much use in running away, though. There aren't many places you can run and there are cases aplenty on the books where the fugitive fell victim to a new and different pollen in his new locality.

Towering over the whole scene is the menace that hay fever can progress into asthma and lung difficulties. One who has seasonal respiratory distress — this could be in any season of the year — should have the advice of a doctor, preferably an allergy specialist.

Eye Shadow Adds Depth
Eye shadow adds depth and luster to your eyes. But at all costs avoid a too-bright, clownish look. For daytime, try the soft hazy shades, such as brown, gray, amber, pale blue or turquoise. White shadow used under colored shadow gives a clear tone. Used over shadow, white gives a pearly translucence. For after-dark eyes, brighter hues are effective, as well as the frosted shades. And if you use cream or stick shadow, set the color with a faint dusting of powder.

Hints from Heloise

by Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

I noticed a hint in your column recently about placing a turkish towel on the ironing board for easier ironing.

When I finally got around to my ironing (which was piled to the ceiling), I decided to try it.

When I came to the shirts, blouses and such that needed sprinkling because they had been in the basket for weeks, I said to myself, "Why not sprinkle the towel instead of all the clothes?"

Wow! Just try it.

I should breeze through my ironing in about six months...

... Terry Noel

Well, your name is certainly befitting, my dear. And your wit takes the cake... Thanks for a good laugh. I don't think any of us have seen the bottom of our ironing baskets in ages...

Sure enough, your hint was wonderful.

I tried sprinkling the bath towel too, and it works.

Also, it seems to sort of cause a steam like an professional presser uses.

Dear Heloise:

I save pint plastic containers from cottage cheese, sour cream and soft oleo to use when we color our Easter eggs.

I place pieces of newspaper on the table first.

Each child is given his own container of different colored dyes. They have a ball dyeing their own eggs, which seems to mean more to them...

Since these containers were free, they can be discarded without extra dishwashing, which happens when dye is used in our everyday dishes.

Not only saves lots of dishwashing, but bleach, too.

House Votes Extra Funds for Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted overwhelmingly to give President Johnson nearly all the extra money he's asked for the Vietnam war.

By a 385-11 margin, the House passed Thursday and sent to the Senate a $12.19-billion emergency appropriation bill for defense. That was only $79.3 million less than Johnson asked.

The House action came as Johnson signed an authorization bill passed earlier by Congress covering $4.59 billion of the sum voted Thursday for Vietnam fighting.

The President hailed the measure as adding strength to U.S. efforts to attain "an honorable settlement" of the war.

Before approving the appropriation bill, the House crushed 123 to 2 an amendment that would have put it in opposition to a land invasion of North Vietnam.

Final Senate approval of the emergency appropriation would boost to about $71 billion the amount allocated to defense during the current fiscal year. Johnson is asking about $72 billion for defense for the year starting July 1.

In the Senate, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield suggested that the United States work through the United Nations Security Council to bring nations involved in the war to the peace table for talks.

Mansfield said a Security Council invitation should go to all nations "deeply involved" in the Vietnam struggle, including non-U.N. members North Vietnam and Communist China.

The Montana said he hoped that secret diplomacy eventually will lead to peace talks, but added: "In my judgment, if there is to be peace in Vietnam, the need remains for a direct confrontation of views between all of the principals."

AID Man Dies After Second Vietnam Tour

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP)—A veteran U.S. Foreign Service officer who returned to South Vietnam for a second tour of duty after receiving severe injuries in a terrorist bombing there, died of illness Friday in a Saigon hospital.

He was Francis J. Savage, 42, a native of Olean and son of Mrs. Helen Savage of this Southern Tier city. She was notified of his death by the government.

Savage died of complications from malaria and a liver abscess, for which he recently had undergone surgery, a family spokesman said. His wife and two children now live on Formosa.

Savage, an employee of the Agency for International Development (AID), was injured in June, 1965 when Viet Cong agents blew up a restaurant on Saigon's waterfront. A companion and several other persons were killed.

After spending 14 months in a hospital in this country, Savage asked to return to Vietnam for a second tour of duty. He arrived back in that country last November and received commendations from AID and South Vietnamese officials.

His mother lives at 311½ S. Second St. here.

Doc on Gunsmoke:

Just Like Walk From Condemned Row and Pardon

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For its stars, the reinstatement of "Gunsmoke" was "like coming off condemned row with a full pardon," says Milburn Stone.

Stone, 62, born 80 miles from the show's locale, Dodge City, Kan., has played its sympathetic, crusty Doc Adams since the Western series came to television 12 years ago, with several years on radio.

Kitty Unghed

When CBS announced Feb. 21 that the show had been canceled for next fall, said Stone: "Amanda (Blake, who plays Kitty) came unghed, crying so they couldn't keep makeup on her. Jim (Arness, who's Marshal Dillon) was stunned. All I could say was 'Well, I'll be d—d.'"

Stone, a handsome, younger-looking man without his makeup as Doc, cut his first real haircut in 12 years, figuring he wouldn't need his shaggy hair any longer.

"It'll grow out enough by the time we start shooting again," he predicted after the series was reinstated March 7.

CBS said cancellation had caused a "surprise reaction of press and our affiliated stations."

Angry, Sorrowful Mail

"There was an avalanche of angry, sorrowful mail," said Stone. "People sent me 25 or 30 newspaper columns, all in violent protest. One columnist wrote, 'Gunsmoke is dead. Long live the reruns.' A resolution was introduced in the Kansas State Legislature."

Stone's role as Doc Adams, in which he said he's perfectly happy to continue, climaxes a 45-year acting career that included some 150 movies.

The protests that followed temporary cancellation of the series "gave you a warm feeling," he said. "Almost make you want to run for senator or something."

Really, though, he has no such ambitions. He'll just go on playing Doc Adams for at least another year.

Sugar can be obtained from almost every green plant.

When to Pre-empt at Four Level

By Oswald & James Jacoby Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The opening bid of four is even more pre-emptive than the bid of three. It also should be a substantially better hand. This is because, somehow or other, three-level pre-empts are seldom doubled while four level pre-empts frequently are.

Thus when we open with a four bid we don't have 10 tricks in our own hand but we do have a hand that is almost surely going to make eight tricks by itself and that has some compensating values.

Curran Charges Reid Missed Tax Sale Sessions

"Where was my opponent, his running mate and their attorney to act in legal proceedings?" asked William P. Curran, Republican and Independent Party candidate for mayor of the Village of Rosendale.

Curran chastised Joseph Reid and Joseph La Fera, Democratic candidates in next Tuesday's election for mayor and trustee, for failing to put in an appearance at the tax sale conducted by the village Friday. He noted that the two Democrats had built the tax sale into a controversial affair with certain charges they have leveled, but had been so disinterested in reality as to not even bother attending the sale itself.

Reid and La Fera had questioned why various and sundry names were missing from the legal notices printed in the newspapers advertising the sale of village properties on which taxes had not been paid according to law. They had insisted that some of the names left off were those of people who were either prominent, important or high in Republican circles and the names had been crossed in deference to them so as not to cause them embarrassment. Curran's camp countered that many had paid their delinquent taxes just prior to submission of the notice to the printer.

After all the hullabaloo, neither Reid, La Fera or their duly appointed attorney to act, Norman Keller, bothered to show at the sale in the Village Firehouse Friday, said Curran. This created problems for those involved, he suggested, who had to carry through without the advice of a lawyer or two of the village trustees.

Many of those who have been maligned were on hand, said Curran, including Mayor Arthur Mulligan, Village Clerk Harriet Mulligan and Village Treasurer Anita Keller.

"Everyone was there who should have been there, but Reid, La Fera and Keller," said Curran, "and the others managed as best they could without the trustees and their lawyer, who had in his possession the tax deeds and other things needed."

Curran made it plain that he felt the Democratic trio had shirked their responsibilities and noted that the former attorney involved, Charles Gaffney, was always present as such tax sales to offer legal advice in what is primarily a legal proceeding.

Cop Dies in Car

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A city patrolman, who sometimes sits in his parked automobile rather than disturb his wife and nine children when returning home from night duty, was found dead in the car Friday.

Investigators said they believed the death of Thomas F. McGuire, 40, was accidental, and possibly caused by carbon monoxide. Medical Examiner John Hyland withheld a formal verdict pending a check with the man's physician, who now is on vacation.

McGuire's body, wrapped in a blanket, was found by his wife in the car in the garage of his home in suburban West Seneca.

Nice Assignment

LONDON (AP) — Policemen in the Golden Green district of north London have been told to keep an eye on girls' legs in case they're wearing satin sheen stockings of a certain type. Thousands of pairs of the stockings, which are not yet on the market, were stolen from a local factory recently.

In first or second seat we would open four spades irrespective of vulnerability with: Spades—A K Q 10 8 7 6, H—2, D—Q J 10 2, C—2. We would not open four spades with: Spades—A K Q J 10 9 8, H—3 2, D—7 6, C—8 4.

The first hand is likely to make four spades if partner can give us one trick. The latter won't make four spades unless partner can give us three.

We have another rule for four-level pre-empts. We never have more than one ace and, if our partner has passed, we do not ever have solid trumps and a void suit.

Today's hand shows the advantage of this hard and fast rule. South had a formal four-spade opening. North looked over his big hand and decided that South might well hold two aces. Therefore, North bid four no-trump. When South bid five diamonds to show one ace, North signed off at five spades but they were one trick too high.

West opened the ace of diamonds and shifted to the queen of hearts. East took two heart tricks and game and rubber had been thrown out the window.

Expo Attracts Capacity Crowd To Auditorium

A capacity crowd of approximately 600 Girl Scouts, relatives and friends attended the 55th anniversary of Girl Scouting in America at the Main Street school auditorium last weekend. Booths, representing 19 different countries where Scouting and Girl Guides flourish, showed the imaginative abilities developed by Scouts through their weekly program activities. Needlecraft skills were shown in the flags made by each troop and in their colorful costumes and booth arrangements.

The "Magic Thread of World Friendship" was reflected in the entertainment program: colorful songs and dances of many countries were presented by the following troops:

Cadet Troop 66—Philippine Spear Dance; 104—Jamaican Stick Dance; 117—Spanish Dance; Junior Troop 133—Mexican Hat Dance; 186—Colombian Folk Song; 73—Canadian Action Guide Song—7 Capers; 23—Japanese Folk Song; 155—German Folk Song; 169—Danish Song "Wonderful Copenhagen"; 5—Norwegian Square Dance; Brownie Troop 45—Bagpipe Solo and Scottish Dance; 154—Irish Rhythm Band; 185—American Indian Dance and Modern Go-Go Dance; 109—Dutch Folk Dance.

Senior Scouts acted as mistresses of ceremonies for these demonstrations and in the coordination of the general program.

The concluding ceremonies, which began at 3 p. m. opened with a formal flag ceremony, conducted by Senior Scouts, which incorporated a parade en masse of all flags of countries represented at the exposition.

Juliette Low World Friendship Fund contributions were then received from scouts of each troop by a Senior Scout, who spoke briefly on uses and purposes of the Fund. Following favorite Girl Scout songs, Mrs. H. Hoffman, Saugerties Neighborhood chairman welcomed the many visitors, who included Miss Alice Vance, executive director, Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts; Mrs. R. Siegel, president of Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts; Mrs. David Ennis, field advisor for County Council; Mrs. John Murdoch, chairman of Kingston Neighborhood; and Mrs. H. Brown, troop consultant, Kingston Neighborhood.

Mrs. Hoffman thanked all leaders and the Saugerties Neighborhood Service Team for their many hours of work and continuing efforts on behalf of Girl Scouting.

Just before closing taps a surprise presentation of a bronze Scout statuette was presented to Mrs. Hoffman by Mrs. G. Holloran, cadette troop consultant, who thanked her on behalf of all leaders for the help and understanding she has given to both old and new members of Scouting.

Singing of taps concluded the 55th annual celebration. Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is a member agency of Community Chest.

Camp Fire Girls Asking Sponsors

The Board of Directors, Saugerties Camp Fire Council, met in the Town Building this week with president Robert Schnell presiding.

Committee reports were given and it was announced that a new Blue Bird Troop under the chairmanship of Mrs. Michael McCormick has been organized. This group consists of 16 girls and meets Tuesday afternoons after school. A survey is in the process of being taken at St. Mary School in the 3rd, 4th, 5th and 6th grades to see if there is enough interest to form a Blue Bird and Camp Fire group from the girl students attending St. Mary of the Snow School.

Edward Flanagan reported on his progress in getting a right of way to the 10 acre Camp Fire Girls camp site located in Veteran. Supervisor Peter Williams and Superintendent William Brown of the Highway Department have offered their assistance.

C of C Explores Planning Board For Town Level

"Saugerties Town Planning Board" will be the topic at the regular meeting of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the meeting room of Saugerties Savings Bank.

Saugerties Town Board members have recently been considering the appointment of a Town Planning Board and the meeting will help to explain the workings of such an agency. Village of Saugerties does have a Planning Board and the Town Board is expected to establish a body to aid in governing future growth some time this year.

The C of C meeting will see planning authorities from this area in attendance. Expected to be on hand are Richard T. Ehler, executive director of Ulster County Planning Board; Irving Oltmann, a member of that board; supervisor Peter Williams; Robert Rightmyer, chairman of the Village Planning Board; and several others. Using slides and other materials, they'll explain how a planning group functions and will answer any and all questions later.

Anyone and everyone interested in the subject is invited to attend, whether a Chamber member or not. It is hoped this meeting and others in the future will benefit the area.

The Chamber secretary, Alfred R. MacMullen, has announced a new member in the Dynacool Manufacturing Company of Russell Street. He also notes that 1967 dues should be paid now, and has given March 21, April 18, May 16 and June 20 as the dates for upcoming meetings.

Cubs Visited Woodwork Shop

With the monthly theme being "Handyman," March really started off with a "bang" for Cubs of Pack 33.

Dens met at the woodworking shop of the Saugerties High School recently to view a tool demonstration prepared by Graham Barkhuff, High School shop teacher. Cubs toured the shop to observe machines and tools and make a mental note of the many safety features. These features were discussed and explained by David Jones, the demonstrator.

Many tools were individually shown to the Cubs, starting with the different types of saws, hammers, drills, and ending up with sandpaper. In all, Cubs were instructed on the proper care, use and storage of over 15 different tools. Also, how to drive a nail and set a screw correctly were explained.

The knowledge gained from the demonstrations will help the Cubs and Den Mothers immeasurably throughout the month. Special thanks goes to David Jones, Assistant Cubmaster of Pack 33, for his time in making this hour a huge success.

Present at the demonstration from Den One: David Anderson, Bruce Charters, Frederick Leuppert, James O'Reilly, Lawrence Sasser, Frank Stangorone, John VanderPoel, James Whritener, James Widdis and Den Mothers Mrs. Fred Leuppert and Mrs. Frank Anderson.

Den Two: William Brooks, Daniel Cartmell, Robert Gaylog, Brad Holmes, Daryl Jones, Thomas Mehlich, Matty Rick, Richard Ridgeway and Den Mothers Mrs. William Brooks and Mrs. George Mehlich.

Cub Scout Pack 33 is Saugerties' newest Pack and is sponsored by Saugerties Methodist Church. Anyone interested in learning more about the Cub Scout program for his son, please call Frank Anderson, Cubmaster.

from Board members and will be sent to state headquarters so the Saugerties Council may receive its charter.

Mrs. Richard Overbaugh, chairman of the Organization of Camp Fire Groups, requests any person interested in sponsoring a group to contact her.

The April meeting will be held in the Town Building, Monday, April 10. All members are requested to attend.

LBj Seeks Governors' Viet Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's governors converge on the White House today with Republicans among them seemingly determined to avoid voicing a new support for President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

There had been indications Johnson might seek a resolution from the governors endorsing his war policies. They have given him such public backing in the past, and one today would coincide with his trip to Guam to discuss the war.

But Republican governors, at a meeting Friday night, apparently moved to head off a showdown on the politically touchy issue.

Biggest Session

The White House said all but 5 of the 54 state and territorial governors accepted presidential invitations for a day of socializing and serious business. This made it about the biggest and longest of seven sessions Johnson has held with groups of governors.

The President slated this one for the day of his midnight take-off for Guam and consultations with his military commander in Vietnam, his old and new diplomatic team there and South Vietnamese leaders.

Whether there was any particular significance in the timing of this get-together with the state chief executives was a matter of unanswered conjecture. But on past occasions the governors have given Johnson bipartisan votes of confidence on Vietnam.

The day-long briefings on domestic and international matters including the war beyond the Pacific were assigned to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other Cabinet members and officials. The windup is a black tie dinner to-night for governors and wives — and in one instance for a governor and husband. Lurleen and George A. Wallace of Alabama. The lady governor gets to sit in on all the official briefings. But her ex-governor husband got no invitation to a beautification tour, luncheon and movie Mrs. Johnson set up for wives.

Johnson may have warmed up the climate for morning briefings on strengthening and improving relations between federal, state and local governments.

Releases Money

Friday he released $791 million in federal money he tied up last fall in an effort to cool off inflationary pressures. Included was $350 million for federal aid to highways, $250 million in special mortgage assistance to low cost housing and $90 million for local flood control and other public works projects of the Army Engineers.

The White House said five governors unable to be present today because of prior commitments were: Roger D. Branigin, Indiana; Edward T. Breathitt, Kentucky; John J. McKeithen, Louisiana; Paul Laxalt, Nevada; and Warren P. Knowles, Wisconsin.

The acceptances included those of at least one Republican with possible designs on the job of his host, Michigan's George Romney.

Teens Commit Suicide

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A verdict of suicide has been issued in the deaths of a high-school girl and a teen-aged boy, identified as a rock 'n' roll singer who was collecting unemployment insurance.

Karen Moses, 16, of Binghamton, and James A. Reed III, 19, of Johnson City, were found Friday in a parked automobile on a lonely road, 15 miles north of here.

State Police said they had rigged the car to funnel exhaust fumes containing carbon monoxide into it.

No note was found. The girl was a pupil at Binghamton Central High. Reed was a singer with a teen-aged group called the Town Criers. He also reportedly wrote gloomy, despondent poetry.

Joe Uhl Is MVP

JOE UHL

Hub Delicateness's powerhouse repeated with a sweep of the championship and Most Valuable Player honors in the Marlboro Invitational tournament Friday night.

Coach Mike Perry's bombers overwhelmed Neisen's Real Estate of Poughkeepsie 123-94 for their second consecutive title.

Jumpin' Joe Uhl swished 48 points in a glittering performance as he nailed down the MVP for the second straight year in a close duel with Joe Molinaro of Neisen's.

Coach Perry, who may have this very squad as his Ulster Community College Senators next season, was highly satisfied with the Delis.

"It was a great team effort," said Perry. "Frank Roselli, Brad Meyer and Bill Zilliox paced the team in hustle and defense."

"Uhl put on a real show for the Marlboro fans," Perry went on. "In addition to his 48 points, he led the team in assists and had three dazzling steals which he turned into layups."

Close First Quarter
The game was close only in the first quarter when Delis led 31-25. By halftime they had widened their margin to 70-52 and went on to win as they pleased.

Scores 18 Fields
Uhl potted 18 fields and added a dozen free throws for his 48 points. Zilliox contributed 26, Meyer hit 17 and Roselli 17.

Molinaro paced the losers with 28 points, as Gary Henderson dunked 17 and Werner Wustrau 19.

Big Test Ahead
Next stop for the new champions is the Hudson Valley tournament Monday at Poughkeepsie where they meet powerful Fallsburgh All Stars in first round action.

The Sullivan County quintet features a blend of Orange and Sullivan CC stars including Dave Brownbill, Terry Foster, Ed Strong, Ed Krane and Dave Eilenberg.

The tournament championship could be in that class of CC stars. However, Stewart AFB and Pine Plains Bombardiers are highly rated.

Felicelli's Pipers of Poughkeepsie won third place by defeating Amodeo's 104-98. Billy Gray potted 34 for Felicelli's.

Sikes Holds Lead With 8-Under 136 At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Hometown Dan Sikes was charging after his first tournament title in two years going into today's third round of the Jacksonville Open. Bob Goalby was wishing for a cievle and Arnold Palmer wasn't even in the running.

Palmer tied for 74th after two rounds of the $100,000 tournament and that wasn't good enough to keep 1967's leading money winner in contention.

The four-time Masters champion, who needs only $252 to become the first winner of $800,000 at golf, missed the qualifying cut for the final 36 holes by one stroke and blamed a balky outter for his 75-73-148 on the first two rounds at the Deerwood Club course.

The disastrous two rounds ended a hot streak for the famed Latrobe, Pa., belter who had won two tournaments this year, tied for second in two others and had officially won $45,298 on the tour.

Leaves In Jet
Palmer flew out in his jet after missing the cut and Sikes took the favorite's role after his second straight sub-par round.

Declining to gamble on the long, tree-lined course to which he belongs, Sikes carefully scored a 69 for a 136-stroke total, eight under par and two strokes in front of challenging Gav Brewer Jr.

Goalby was three strokes out of the lead — and also out of a new car despite his hole-in-one on the 210-yard 15th which he ached with a three-iron.

Don January had claimed the sports car given for the first hole-in-one when he ached the eighth hole on Thursday.

January was still in the running at 140 after his second straight 70, which left him one stroke back of Goalby. Bert Yancey and Jack McGowan, Goalby's ace helped him to a 69. McGowan turned in a 68 and Yancey shot a 66.

Jack Nicklaus, whose iron play turned sour to add to his outting troubles, was far off the pace at 146 after his 74, and South African Gary Player and defending champion Doug Sanders weren't much better off.

Player, fighting a fever, shot 72 to tie at 144 with Sanders, who turned in a 71.

Burke Explains Stand On KHS Ski Varsity; Recommends Soccer

Acknowledging mounting public pressure for expansion of the varsity athletic program at Kingston High School, Athletic Director Willard A. (Bill) Burke today issued a policy statement in which he said:

"I am not against varsity skiing, schoolboy crew racing or soccer."

"My job is to promote sports and athletic activity for the greatest number of students on the varsity and intramural level."

Simultaneously, he revealed that he is recommending the addition of soccer to the interscholastic program for the first time.

With respect to varsity skiing, Burke said there were several factors that, in his opinion, made it impractical at the present time.

Lists Some Factors
He listed some of these as inaccessibility to practice areas, scheduling, excessive cost of transportation, a sharp reduction in the number participating in the sport and rigid New York state rules governing the coaching of varsity squads.

Granting varsity status to the ski team would reduce the number of active participants from the present 300 to a maximum of 25, Burke pointed out.

"I know there are those who will insist that we retain the ski club and a varsity team at the same time," he observed. "But this would make costs prohibitive."

Burke said the high school ski club now totals about 300 members who pay $5.00 dues each.

"Nearly all of this money is eaten up by transportation costs," he said.

Girls Are Barred
"Furthermore, with varsity status," he went on, "there would be no girls participating and we would have to hire a trained professional coach."

"The present coach, Richard Schaefer, who has done a splendid job at nominal pay would not be eligible to coach the team under state laws."

Burke pointed out that varsity teams must engage in a minimum 10 practices before actual competition begins.

"With Phoenicia and Highmount the closest ski areas to us, transportation costs alone would be tremendous," he added.

"We're not as fortunate as the six area schools who have slopes much nearer their school."

"I wish to make it clear, however," he added, "that notwithstanding all these factors, I am not against the principal of a varsity team and ski club, but the final decision will have to be made by the Board of Education."

On the subject of a swimming pool, Burke indicated the Board of Education will not consider it unless it can be installed in a centrally located building within the school system.

"When such a building is built, we'll have a swimming pool," he said.

Asks for $2,000
Burke announced that he is recommending a $2,000 item for the athletic budget to cover the cost of a soccer program for the first year.

He projects a 12-game schedule which would involve about 50 boys during the fall season.

In his communication to the Board of Education, the athletic director noted that at the present time Kingston High is offering only football and cross-country with more than 1,000 boys in the school.

The AD called to the attention of the board the fact that most schools in the DUSO League now have soccer in their program on an interscholastic (varsity) basis at the present.

"It is my recommendation," he wrote, "that we add the sport as early as possible. Actually, it should have been proposed several years ago, but due to lack of facilities to both practice and play on, the request has been withheld."

Wild Night in NCAA

Princeton, St. John's Louisville Are Upset

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Charles Beasley tipped the ball half the length of the court to Denny Holman for a layup with four seconds left to give Southern Methodist an amazing 83-81 victory over Louisville.

It was the upset of upsets in the NCAA national championship college basketball tournament Friday night.

In addition to the stunning defeat of Louisville — nationally second-ranked Cardinals, hot Houston upset third-ranked Kansas 66-53; Dayton surprised ninth-ranked Boston College upset St. John's of New York 63-62; University of Pacific surprised No. 10 Texas Western; the defending NCAA champion, 72-63; fourth-ranked North Carolina had to go overtime to beat fifth-ranked Princeton 78-70 and Virginia Tech upset Indiana 79-70.

Only the unbeaten UCLA Bruins, the country's No. 1 team, had an easy time as the NCAA field was cut to eight quarter-finalists. The Bruins made it 27 in a row by crushing Wyoming 109-60.

Alcindor Leads Rout
Lew Alcindor, the Player of the Year, led UCLA with 29 points although playing only part of the game.

The results set up these four regional finals tonight to determine the teams which will go to Louisville, Ky., next weekend for the championship window of the tourney.

East at College Park, Md. — North Carolina, 25-4, vs. Boston College, 21-2, Midwest at Evansville, Ind. — Dayton, 23-5, vs. Virginia Tech, 20-6, Midwest at Lawrence, Kan. — Houston, 25-3, vs. Southern Methodist, 20-5, Far West at Corvallis, Ore. — UCLA, 27-0, vs. Pacific, 24-3.

Princeton, 24-3, plays St. John's, 23-4, Tennessee, 21-6, Michigan, 17-5, Louisville, 23-4, tangles with Kansas, 22-4; and Texas Western, 21-6, battles Wyoming, 15-13, in the four regional consolation.

Beasley's tap to Holman earned a Southern Methodist rally that wiped out an eight-point Louisville lead in the closing minute — the score tied at 81-81 a jump ball was called near the Louisville goal between the 6-foot-5 Beasley and 6-foot-3 Fred Holden of the Cardinals.

Holman's Key Basket
Beasley got the jump for his long tap and Holman, west in the layup that spoiled the Cardinals' dream of meeting UCLA in the championship final.

The winning basket gave Holman high scoring honors with 30 points. In addition he made five steals and handed out several assists. Holman topped Louisville with 23 points.

Don Chaney, with 20 points, and Elvin Hayes, with 19, combined for 39 points for Houston, but a bank shot by Gary Grider for his only basket of the game was the key play in the Cougars' upset of Kansas. The two-pointers gave Houston a 57-51 lead with five minutes left.

Jo Jo White paced Kansas with 18 points, including three straight baskets that cut Houston's lead to 55-51 before Grider's key goal.

Drop 13-Point Lead
Tennessee erased a 13-point Dayton lead, by the Fivers failed to upset the Vols on free throws by Bob Hooper. Dan Sadtler and Glinder Torain in the last 24 seconds to break a Lewis Leads Drive.

50-50 tie. Ron Widby, high scorer of the game with 20 points, got a Tennessee basket unloosed in the last second.

Glen Combs' 29 points paced Virginia Tech over Indiana including five baskets in a 12-point spur that gave the Hokies a 68-57 lead with less than five minutes left.

Helped by the loss to St. John's of Sonny Dove on personal fouls, Boston College wiped out a nine-point deficit to upset the Redmen. Willie Wolters put the Eagles ahead at 61-60 with a free throw with 55 seconds left, and two more foul shots by Billy Evans with eight seconds to go sewed it up for the New Englanders.

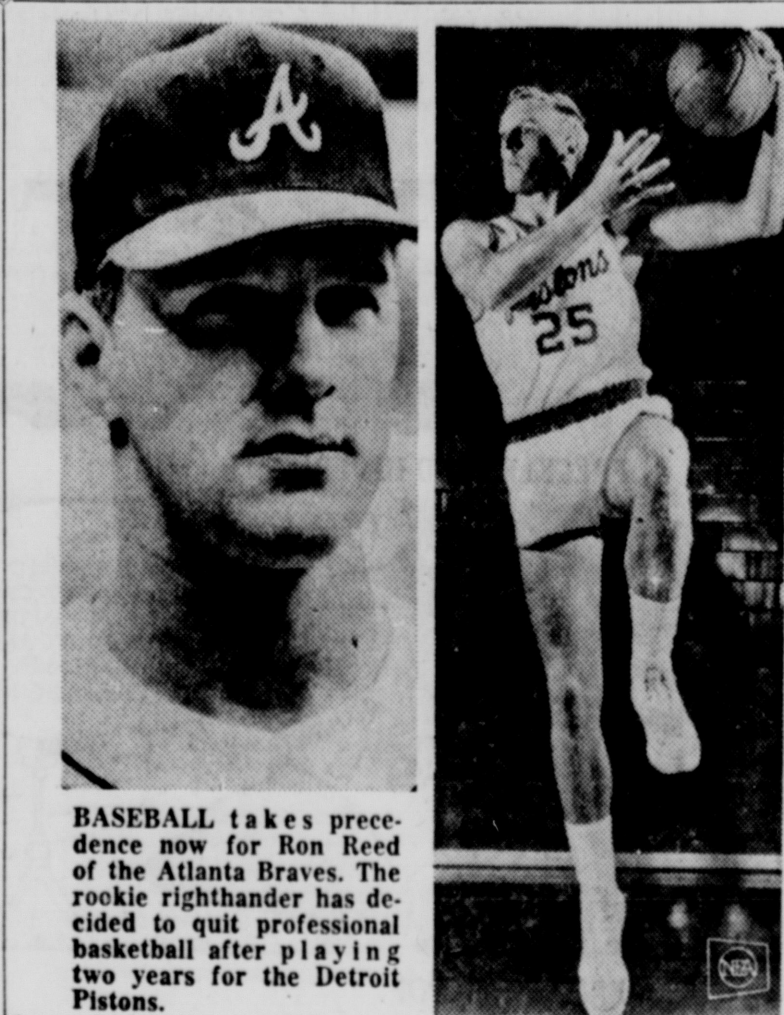

Princeton erased an eight-point deficit in the last five minutes to tie North Carolina 63-63 on Joe Heiser's basket with 17 seconds left in regulation time.

The Tar Heels pulled away in the overtime, led by Bob Lewis' seven points as they avenged an early season defeat by the Tizers. Three Princeton starters fouled out, but Coach Bill van Breda Kolff said "we shot only 35 per cent. That was the difference."

Pacific won its 21st straight by defeating Texas Western, Bob Krulish, with 24 points, and Keith Swazerty, with 19, led the Stockton Tigers.

The group, meeting in conjunction with the National Collegiate Athletic Association hockey championships, voted to hold the 1969 tournament in Colorado Springs, March 20-22.

Other sites considered for the 1969 playoffs included Syracuse, Utica and Lake Placid, with Lake Placid chosen as the alternate site.

Illini's Future At Stake Today

CHICAGO (AP)—A Big Ten "jury" is expected to hand down a final verdict Saturday in the case of the University of Illinois' $21,000 athletic slush fund.

The Illini's long-hidden molehill of illegal aid to athletes that suddenly grew into a conference mountain of trouble could bring the school suspension or expulsion from the Big Ten.

The conference office declined to reveal where the scheduled day-long hearing will be held, but presumably it will be in the same hotel where a news conference on the outcome is scheduled at 6:30 p. m.

It is conjectured what Dr. David Henry, the school's president, will add to his 45-minute appeal March 3 before the same faculty group that threatened to oust Illinois from the conference for failure to fire three coaches touched by the scandal.

At that meeting the faculty men upheld a Feb. 22 mandate by the conference athletic directors that Illinois must fire head football Coach Pete Elhoff, head basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant basketball Coach Howie Braun, or be suspended or expelled from the league.

Dr. Henry has termed the conference ultimatum a "too harsh" and has shown no inclination to lessen backing of his three coaches. However, it was speculated he might offer to suspend the three or accept institutional penalties short of expulsion from the Big Ten.

Further speculation was that the faculty group's final decision may be suspension of Illinois for two or three years with accompanying loss of TV receipts and Rose Bowl participation.

Cornell-Boston In 1st All-East Hockey Finale

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Here it is again, fans. For the third time this season, it's the Cornell hockey squad against Boston University — only tonight it's for the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship.

The first all-East final in 18 years developed Friday night when Fred Bassi fired two goals to lead BU to a 4-2 victory over Michigan State in the semifinals.

Cornell, which defeated BU for the Eastern College Athletic Association championships, 4-3, a week ago, moved to the finals on a 1-0 victory over North Dakota Thursday night.

Earlier in the season, BU and Cornell had tied 3-3. Michigan State, the defending champion, meets North Dakota in a consolation game today. The Spartans' defeat by BU ended a 13-year reign by Western teams in the tourney.

Jim Quint and Darrell Abbott also scored for the Terriers as BU goalie Wayne Ryan turned away 27 shots. Bill Faunt and Tom Mikkola registered scores for the Spartans, while Michigan State goalie Gayle Cooley posted 33 saves.

The victory was Boston's 25th in 30 games. Cornell has won 26 in 28 starts.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO

Freeman Sports Editor

You may have heard about the new golf course being carved out of the rolling hills in the Pine Plains area of Dutchess County. It's going to be more than that. Known as the All American Sports City, when fully developed it will be one of the largest year-round vacation communities in the United States.

Twenty miles from Kingston, it is situated in scenic country in the townships of Pine Plains and Milan, Dutchess County, on the Taconic State Parkway.

Its biggest attraction, of course, will be a 7,030-yard par 36-72 golf layout, with clubhouse, pro shop, putting green and practice fairway.

The huge complex being developed by Thomas A. Carvel, the ice cream king, also projects 500 homesites, a 38-acre lake named Lake Carvel after the owner and a Children's Dream World with an acre and half lake of its own.

Along the sandy beach, dock and beach club there will be facilities for swimming, boating, sailing, fishing, skiing and trap-shooting, skiing, ice skating, tobogganing, ice fishing, riding trails and tennis, a hunting lodge, restaurant and cocktail bar.

A shopping plaza is located just across the parkway. Also available to the membership will be limousine service, car rentals, airplane and helicopter service.

The complex has been compared to Palm Springs in California but it is even bigger.

Damone Is Chairman:

You can join by ponying up $1,000 initiation fee and $475 annual dues and have your credentials approved by a committee headed by a well known popular singer, Vic Damone, membership chairman.

Big names in the entertainment world are expected to be charter members, among them Bob Hope, longtime friend of Carvel, Perry Como, Johnny Carson, Jackie Gleason and other important national figures.

Non-resident golf membership (101 to 150 miles away) costs $500 in initiation fees and $375 dues. Over 150 miles, the tab is $400-$275. Basic non-golfing membership, using all facilities except golf, requires $750 initiation and $250 annual dues. House members (use of clubhouse facilities only) are tabbed $350 initiation and $150 dues. International and associate members pay $100 dues.

Long Range Plans:

Carvel, an amateur golf nut, is already thinking in terms of projecting the All American Sports City as one of the golf meccas in the world. Plans are under way to make the All-American one of the annual stops on the Professional Golfers Association circuit.

Carvel already has established the All-American Collegiate Golf Hall of Fame within the Pine Plains complex. A building will be erected on the property and title to the hall was accepted at the recent golf dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association in New York.

Supervising the golf course layout is a former Woodstock resident, Herbie Waterous who came to All American Country Club from famed Wykagyl at New Rochelle. Previous to that he had performed a stint at Wiltwyck Country Club, following his graduation from the agronomy school at Penn State.

An excellent golfer in his own right, Waterous is highly enthusiastic about the All American's potential.

"That course has everything," said Waterous. "It has length, beautiful terrain, brooks and ponds, some rolling hills and will play to a tough par 72."

"Mr. Carvel wants one of the finest golf courses in the country and he's getting it," said Herb.

Originally pegged for a 1967 spring opening, the All American timetable is running behind schedule. It is expected the course will be opened to the membership in late summer.

Three Shutout Innings

Nolan Was Fine Irish Hurler on St. Paddy's

By HAL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

Sure, and wouldn't you know that a fine broth of an Irish lad would be at his very best on St. Patrick's Day.

Garv Nolan, who has a kiss of the old country in his blood and a Cincinnati bonus in his pocket celebrated the big day Friday with three shutout innings in the Reds' 7-5 victory over Boston.

And don't hand Nolan that blamey about leprechauns helping him on the mound. The Reds' top choice in last summer's free agent draft, the 18-year-old right-hander has a world of confidence in his own ability.

"Sure I expect to stick with the big club," says the youngster, who was pitching for Oloville, Calif. High School at this time last year.

After signing with the Reds last June, Nolan had a 7-3 record with a 1.82 earned run average at Sioux Falls, S.C. The big eye-opener was 163 strikeouts and only 30 bases on balls in 104 innings pitched.

Allows One Hit

Nolan allowed only one hit and struck out six of the 11 Boston batters he faced Friday. He has allowed just three singles.

Cassius Maps Busy Schedule, Ignoring Early Draft Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay now says he expects to be around for another three fights in the next four months despite an order to report for induction in the Army April 11.

The heavyweight champion's attorneys are seeking an injunction to prevent Clay, who contends he is a minister for the Black Muslims, from being inducted.

Clay, or Muhammad Ali, as he prefers, has implied he would go to jail "for what I believe" rather than go into military service.

Madison Square Garden officials, who were scared that the champ's legal battle against the draft would hurt the gate for his Wednesday night defense with Zora Folley, were amazed to discover they had a booming boxoffice.

Also amazing has been the reaction of the fans to Clay in his free, public workouts in the Garden basement. Standing room crowds cheer every move by the 25-year-old unbeaten champion, even his rope skinning.

An Anniversary

It's been more than a year since Clay uttered his remark, "I ain't got no quarrel with the Viet Cong." His fight with Ernie Terrell was chased out of the country and later dropped. Clay fought Canadian champion George Chuvalo in Toronto instead.

It was after his four-round workout with sparmate James Ellis Friday that Clay said he heard hell be able to fight four months more. He said he expected to have three fights in maybe all out of the country in that time — including a May 27 defense against Argentina's Oscar Bonavena in Tokyo.

struck out nine and walked one in six innings pitched this spring.

"He has a wealth of natural stuff," marvels Dave Bristol, the Reds' manager. "And he's imperturbable."

And Irish too.

In Friday's other games, St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 10-5. San Francisco whipped California 7-2. Philadelphia downed Houston 5-2. Washington shaded Atlanta 3-2. The Chicago Cubs ripped Cleveland 9-3. Detroit topped the White Sox 7-3.

The New York Mets topped Baltimore 5-3. Los Angeles downed the Yankees 4-2 and Minnesota nipped Kansas City 4-3.

Lee May, another Cincinnati rookie, smacked three hits including a two-run game-winning homer in the ninth inning that gave the Reds their victory over the Red Sox. Nolan was the winner.

John Romano, who isn't Irish, tried and singled, driving in three runs for the Cardinals against Pittsburgh. Mike Shannon, who is, had three hits for St. Louis. Donn Clendenon homered for the Pirates.

Perry Excels

Gaylord Perry worked five shutout innings for the Giants, allowing just three hits against California. Jim Hart snapped out of a slump with his first two hits of the spring, driving in four runs with a home run and a double.

Johnny Callison and Johnny Briggs each tagged two run homers as the Phillies whipped the Astros.

Big Frank Howard lumbered in from third on a slow grounder to short in the sixth inning, giving the Senators the winning run against Atlanta. An error by Denis Menke set the stage for Washington's winning rally.

The streaking Cubs won their sixth straight game but lost Ron Santo for at least a week. Santo was sniped on the left knee in a home plate collision with Cleveland catcher Duke Sims and took six stitches.

Jim Northrup and Ray Oyler tagged Gary Peters for home runs as the Tigers tripped the White Sox. Detroit ripped Peters for eight hits and six runs.

Ed Kranepool's bases loaded single in the eighth inning drove in the tie breaking runs as the Mets topped the Orioles. Brooks Robinson homered for Baltimore.

Claude Osteen, Phil Regan and Ron Ferranowski limited the Yankees to three hits as the Dodgers won. John Kennedy's eighth inning single broke a 2-2 tie.

Earl Battey drove in Minnesota's winning run in the bottom of the ninth against the Athletics at Caracas, Venezuela. Harmon Killebrew had two home runs for the Twins.

Chicago Bulls Way to Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago has just about Bullied its way into the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bulls, born out of NBA expansion last summer, clinched a tie for fourth place in the Western Division and a playoff berth Friday night with a 120-117 victory over San Francisco.

In the only game played Friday night, Los Angeles beat Baltimore 135-133.

Chicago's victory gave the Bulls a 1 1/2 game lead over fifth place Detroit. The Pistons have two games remaining and the Bulls one. Should Detroit win both its games and Chicago lose, the teams would play off for the berth.

Rookie Erwin Mueller led Chicago with 27 points including three clutch baskets in a fourth quarter drive. Rick Barry had 27 for the Western champion Warriors.

Chicago's Guy Rodgers had 18 assists and established an NBA season record with 901. The old mark was 899 set by Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in 1961-62.

Elgin Baylor scored 25 points and Archie Clark 24 in leading Los Angeles past Baltimore. Baylor hit two key free throws and Clark one in the final 40 seconds, sealing up the victory.

Ray Scott's 25 points topped Baltimore.

Dodd's Future Is in Hands Of Senate Probe Committee

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political career and reputation of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd hang in the balance as the Senate ethics committee secretly weighs accusations of financial wrongdoing against him.

The committee's public probe of Dodd — the first Senate proceeding of its kind since the McCarthy era — ended Friday with the Connecticut Democrat saying "my conscience is clear."

Emotionally but quietly, the white-haired Dodd told the committee: "I don't believe any man is going to look me in the eye and say I've done wrong."

5 Days of Hearings

On that note the committee adjourned after five days of taking testimony that dealt primarily with allegations that Dodd used contributions to his political campaigns for personal expenses.

An earlier round of hearings last summer explored his relationship with Chicago public relations man Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German business interests. Dodd is accused of making several trips to Germany to help Klein retain client there.

The ethics committee, composed of three Democrats and three Republicans, may meet next week but Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said it will be "some weeks, at least" before it reports its findings and recommendations to the Senate.

A wide range of possibilities is open. It could find Dodd had done nothing improper, or it could recommend a reprimand, censure, or expulsion from the Senate. It also could call for action against him by the Justice Department.

But the 59-year-old senator, after undergoing more than two hours of questioning, told the committee he is sure he's done nothing wrong.

There were some indications that the committee may go beyond the Dodd case itself in its report and incorporate proposals for a code of ethics for senators and Senate employees and overhauling the current practice act and other laws dealing with campaign financing. However, it was understood no decision on this has been reached. The committee had started work on recommendations of this nature before it launched its investigation of Dodd's affairs a little over a year ago.

Senate's Responsibility

Once the report is submitted, the Senate itself will assume responsibility for what is done about it.

The House also is wrestling with the problem of ethics in a sequel to its recent refusal to seat Harlem Democrat Adam Clayton Powell.

The late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., was the last member of the Senate involved in a censure proceeding. In 1954 his conduct was criticized by a 67-22 vote of the Senate at a special session.

McCarthy was only the fourth member in Senate history to suffer an official rebuke from his colleagues.

Dodd, testifying mostly in a low, soft voice, maintained that a series of testimonial affairs between 1961 and 1965 were not to raise campaign funds for him but to provide him with money to meet debts and what he called "personal-political" expenses.

Know of Gifts

He said persons who bought tickets to the testimonials that raised nearly $150,000 knew they were making a gift to him.

Dodd testified he "got in the hole" financially in 1956 when he first ran for the Senate — and lost — and said "I never was able to get out." He won election in 1958 and was re-elected in 1964.

He said his debts became "a revolving thing" as he paid off one loan he had to get another from someone else.

He had bitter words for four former employees who took some 4,000 documents from his office and turned over copies to columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson, whose subsequent stories led to the investigation.

"I may be the only member of the U.S. Senate whose files have been systematically rifled, ransacked and the contents taken to creatures who deal in this sort of traffic," Dodd said.

He called the ex-employees thieves and betrayers of his trust. He already has filed a $2 million libel suit against Pearson and Anderson.

Accuse O'Hare

Dodd said Michael V. O'Hare, his former bookkeeper, lied under oath in testifying earlier that the senator tried to cover up with money orders the use of political funds to pay personal bills.

He also denied, contrary to O'Hare's testimony, that he knowingly submitted duplicate bills for travel expenses on official or speechmaking trips. O'Hare said the senator ordered him to make dual billings.

When questioning by committee members ended, Dodd said he would like to make a statement.

"This is the end of a hard period for me, really a period of 14 or 15 months of torture, mental torture," he said. But he told his fellow senators "my conscience is clear."

"Otherwise I don't think I could have survived this," he said.

Road Cash for State

WASHINGTON (AP) — New York State is to receive $18.4 million in highway funds released from $350 million in frozen allocations.

The Transportation Department gave a state-by-state breakdown Friday. The funds were locked last fall when President Johnson ordered anti-inflation measures.

The President reported Friday that inflation pressures have receded as he released highway and housing money.

Argentina is the name of a town in Pennsylvania.

Reid, LaFera Issue Reports On Year's Events

Joseph LaFera, and Joseph Reid, trustees of the Village of Rosendale and co-owners for election to public office, are preparing their annual report on village affairs. They have made the following statement:

"One of the major problems encountered by both trustees during the previous year was the harassment they encountered in attempting to review the village records. The village records, of course, are in the possession of the Mayor, Village Clerk, and Treasurer, and should be available to every citizen upon demand. Trustees LaFera and Reid were finally forced to call for a review of the records by the State Department of Audit and Control. Under normal conditions, an audit of a village the size of Rosendale would take approximately ten days; the present official examination, however, has been in process for more than two months. A report of the results of the audit will be made available to the press by Trustees LaFera and Reid immediately upon its completion.

During the past year, LaFera and Reid were met with opposition by other village officials when they requested that the purchase of gasoline and chlorine be done under a state contract, rather than by the personal discretion of the individuals concerned. They were opposed on the grounds that the business must be done locally.

LaFera and Reid forced the use of the State contract, with the result that the village saved approximately 40 per cent over the previous cost, and the dealer under the State contract, can more accurately be defined as 'local' than the one used before.

"One of the critical problems facing the entire county is that of water supply. Many areas, including large cities, have neglected the problem and have had to take emergency action to provide even the minimum amount of water needed; New York City is an example of this. LaFera and Reid have, after two meetings with a prominent citizen, have initiated the steps which will result in the acquisition of a water supply that produces almost two million gallons a day. This will guarantee that Rosendale is never forced to expensive last-ditch efforts to provide residents with one of the fundamental requirements of a healthy community.

"LaFera and Reid have also an inventory of all assets of the village: equipment and property. This is an important prerequisite for intelligent and efficient village management. It has not been accomplished for many years.

"The village board has begun a study of the manhours and equipment which have been used in the village under Items 3 and 4, snow removal and equipment. The state conference of Mayors advocates that towns grant certain exemptions to villages because of double taxation. This is not granted in Rosendale at the present time. It appears to LaFera and Reid that it should be.

If this study is completed, a much needed village truck with a plow could be purchased and would make the village more self-sufficient. Presently, the town will only plow certain roads in the village, and additional village expenditure is required to complete the job.

"The flood control program which has been floating around for the past 10 years has become a reality under LaFera and Reid. Through the efforts of the village board during 1966 this issue was forced to a resolution. Trustee LaFera, through contact with Congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick, worked on the federal portion, and Trustee Reid went to Albany to make the State contacts. The project is to be started in the spring.

"After discovering a number of glaring inequities in the assessment rolls, streets were immediately taken to bring about correction. The two trustees went out with the assessor, street by street and reviewed the assessed values and made suggestions aimed at correction of errors. A possible re-assessment of the entire village is planned for the near future."

THE HASKINS ASSOCIATED ARCHITECTS

Washing and Drying Machines in Kitchen

By JACK McLENEY

Associated Architects today present a neat two-bedroom home plan that is designed to meet a large proportion of incomes, and provide attractive, comfortable shelter for those families. This house is called "The Haskins." To provide a certain amount of flexibility regarding both income and owner preferences, the garage and breezeway may be omitted at first and added at a later date. In addition, the plans that are available show how the home may be constructed of concrete block, brick veneer or wood siding, as illustrated in the accompanying sketch.

"The Haskins" is not a plain sort of affair. On the contrary, the plans call for such features as a floor-to-ceiling window wall, an outdoor planting bed below the front bedroom windows and a solid-appearing outside chimney.

Inside, you'll find much the same treatment. Large closets, large bath, a kitchen that is big enough to accommodate washer and dryer—these will give you the idea.

The master bedroom is 12½ by 14 feet, the second bedroom 10 by 12 feet. Wardrobes rather than closets are set snugly in the walls, their sliding doors saving wall space in an efficient manner. Easily accessible, the bath has its own linen closet, but in a luxurious recess and a sink safely beyond the swing of the door — often neglected even in modern homes.

The flight of steps to the basement is set conveniently near the bathroom for shopwork enthusiasts to wash up in short order.

Kitchen, dining room and living room form a unit, for these are the living quarters. Each, however, is separate unto itself, yet the kitchen is handy to the living room when you want a snack. The dining room forms an "L" with the living room, allowing light and the eye to sweep across the full width of the house, 27 feet. A half wall and arch are used as separation. A vestibule in the living room provides an entry. In itself the vestibule shields the room from drafts and gusts of wind, and there is a handy closet for your own and guests' clothing.

The "U" shape of the kitchen's cooking area is many a housewife's dream. You may have seen this ideal arrangement in a friend's home, and wondered if you'd ever find your own kitchen laid out so efficiently. The effect of the "U" shape is to reduce steps, and as a consequence, homemaker fatigue.

Built-ins in "The Haskins" are real money-savers because they eliminate the purchase of expensive furniture. These include a china cabinet in the dining room (a full-sized 9½ by 12 feet, by the way) and a bookcase beside the fireplace.

Associate Architects offer plans of "The Haskins" at moderate cost. These blueprints are the same ones used during actual construction. Please use the accompanying coupon when ordering, and indicate if you want plans with basement or without basement. With your order you will receive a set of specifications to help protect your investment.

Multimillionaire, 95 Dies, Leaves Ex-Convict Widow

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A. Otis Birch, 95, California-Texas multimillionaire whose marriage to an ex-convict a few months ago sent relatives and institutions scurrying to court, died Wednesday, the Dallas Bureau of Vital Statistics reported.

The William D. Brown Funeral Home at nearby Grand Prairie said the body was entombed at Laurel Land Mausoleum here today.

Neither the funeral home nor the bureau of statistics could give the cause of death. A funeral home spokesman said an autopsy was performed at the request of Birch's widow but the results were not available.

In recent months, Birch was virtually deaf and blind and required constant care.

He and his wife, the former Pearl Choate, resided in a trailer in Dallas.

Then he yelled up to be pulled out by the rope.

Ailing Sukarno On Health Trip

JAKARTA (AP) — Stripped of his power and reported ailing, Indonesia's former President Sukarno prepared today to leave his Jakarta palace for the health resort of Bogor.

Information Minister B.M. Diah denied reports that Sukarno was under house arrest but said Sukarno must get permission from the acting president, Gen. Suharto, to travel inside or outside the country.

The student newspaper Kambi said authorities refused to let Sukarno wear his military uniform.

Sukarno was expected to stay at his palace in Bogor, 40 miles from the capital, and at his retirement home nearby. The area is noted for its botanical gardens and summer homes of wealthy Indonesians.

A spokesman said the minister of health visited the Jakarta palace in connection with Sukarno's health. Palace guards said the 65-year-old former president appeared in excellent condition and spent some time playing with five of his eight children.

Suharto, named acting president a week ago when Congress removed Sukarno's title and the last remnants of his power has said Sukarno's health is worsening but has not indicated the nature of the ailment.

In Tokyo, Ratna Sari Dewi Sukarno, 27, his third wife, said he believes her husband is suffering from a recurrent kidney disease and exhaustion.

'Golden Age' of Video Comedy Returns for an Hour in Big-Four Special

By CLIFF DEKTAR

HOLLYWOOD

Sid Caesar, Imogene Coca, Carl Reiner and Howard Morris—"The Big Four" of the Golden Age of Television of the 1950s—will have their first video reunion in 13 years Wednesday evening, April 5, over CBS.

"The Big Four" who made television comedy history as the stars of the classic "Your Show of Shows"—plus writers Mel Tolkin, Mel Brooks, Bill Persky and Sam Denoff—all worked together to make "The Sid Caesar-Imogene Coca-Carl Reiner-Howard Morris Special" what promises to be one of the season's outstanding treats.

And neatest trick of the season, perhaps, was getting everyone together for the production. "All from our old group—stars and writers—have grown professionally and made exciting and busy careers for themselves," says Caesar. (Persky and Denoff, two of the brightest new comedy writers in the television firmament, were added to the original group.)

How did the idea for The Great Reunion come about?

"I did a feature, 'The Mouse That Roared,'" recalls Jack Arnold, producer of the special. "Sid and his manager, H. F. Green, thought the film would make the basis for a good television series. We produced a pilot but it failed to sell."

While working on the pilot, the trio came up with the thought of doing "just one more big show" reuniting Caesar, Coca, Reiner and Morris.

"I proposed the show to CBS," says Arnold. "They scoffed, stated it couldn't be done—you just couldn't get these highly talented people together for under a million dollars, if then, they said."

"Sid and I didn't share their pessimism. We started the wheels rolling to bring everyone together."

"It was a labor of love all around," Caesar recalls. "I know it sounds rather corny, but we all wanted to work on the special—it was a show everyone was excited to do."

With such an array of talent, how could the special be put together without everyone coming apart at the seams?

"It was done by committee, you might say. We got into a room, sat down, talked about this idea. That idea."

"We actually walked into our first session with blank sheets of paper. Everyone contributed, a secretary kept taking notes, and soon we had an outline for the show. We'd put an idea 'up on its feet.' If it played, fine. If not, we tried something else. We had lots of healthy disagreement."

The veteran comedian explains there was complete creative freedom—anyone could say what he wanted to. "It's the technique we used on 'Your Show of Shows,'" Caesar says.

The CCRM special is all-new material, with some classic comedy scenes.

The special begins when "The Big Four" meet in a supermarket and decide to do "just one more show."

"We have a variety of situations," says Producer Arnold. "Sid and Imogene do a sketch of two Americans in Paris and our musical 'haircut' number with Sid, Carl and Howie singing is zany and funny—we hope."

Imogene Coca was delighted when presented with the idea of reuniting the group. She admitted, however, that she was a bit apprehensive about doing "just one more."

"You know... like opening a door to something that's been past gone."

"On the first day of rehearsal all of us were looking at each other to see who had changed and how much—all that kind of business."

"The strange thing was, the minute we started rehearsing, it was as if we had all been asleep during the period—from our last show together to this one."

Imogene first met Sid in 1949. "Max Liebman was social director at a resort in Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountains where we did a brand new revue every Saturday."

"One day Max called and said, 'Would you like to do four weeks on television?'"

The comedienne agreed and was introduced to Sid on "The Admiral Revue."

"We went our own ways on the show—didn't work with each other. After several weeks I was running out of material and went to Max to suggest a number, 'Better Go Now'—a song and pantomime routine."

Imogene recalls that she thought the actor with whom she had done the routine on Broadway would be engaged for the television act, but Liebman suggested Sid Caesar for "Better Go Now."

"That marked the first time we worked together. Sid automatically did all of the things his predecessor and I had done previously, without ever seeing the number. We went on to a second number and then a third and that's how it all started."

Since "Your Show of Shows," Carl Reiner has become one of the most versatile talents in the entertainment field. In addition to his earlier record as a television actor and writer, Reiner created, produced and wrote "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and walked away with a hatful of Emmys for the popular series.

Recently he was widely acclaimed for his starring role in "The Russians Are Coming," and has just completed directing his first motion picture, "Enter Laughing."

"One of the greatest things about our old show was that we weren't afraid to try new things and experiment," Reiner recalls. "We failed a great many times, but we also succeeded and brought off some very funny things."

Reiner says it is increasingly difficult to do really outstanding comedy today on television.

"Comedy almost of necessity must offend somebody. That doesn't mean that it needs to be offensive or cruel over-all, but it does have to take off on some target—some one, or something."

"You show me a comedian—perhaps Will Rogers was an exception—who never offended anybody, and I'll show you a man who wasn't very funny."

Reiner's old sidekick, Howard Morris has also expanded his career into motion picture production.

Morris says that Caesar was the driving factor and creative energy behind the April 5 special.

"Sid always gave us the push on 'Your Show of Shows' and it was the same for this current show."

Morris doesn't think television is as good now as it was when "Your Show of Shows" was in vogue.

"I think there is considerably more censorship over the performer now. It comes from all sides—networks, sponsors and producers. It's not that we didn't have censorship then, but it was more of a self-imposed kind. We regulated ourselves only in the matter of good taste, but never creativity."

Will there be another reunion of "The Big Four"?

Caesar, Miss Coca, Reiner and Morris each admitted one might be possible, but none of the entertainers would look into the future beyond the current stanza, Wednesday, April 5.

Real Compliment

During the taping of Damn Yankees, scheduled for NBC-TV later this season, Phil Silvers spotted a nun who was visiting the set. He introduced himself to her and showed her around the complex that is a color TV studio. When the visit was over, the nun said, "You've been very kind and I'll always remember you." Phil said, "Do me a favor and don't remember me as Phil Silvers. Remember me as 'that Jewish man' who showed you around."

TV Questions &amp; Answers

COMPLAINT DEPARTMENT— To CBS-TV or anyone else who has charge of taking some programs off the air, such as What's My Line, To Tell the Truth, I've Got a Secret and Gunsmoke: in the paper it said it was the viewers' fault if some shows are taken off the air because the viewers won't complain. So I'm complaining.—Mrs. M. P., Huron, Ohio

You have the right idea. In fact, CBS recently announced that Gunsmoke, which had been killed, will be revived and the reason they give is viewers' reaction to the program cancellation notice.

STATION BREAK

"So, Ed, the wife says to me, 'Either the TV goes or I do!' Huh? Oh, right now I'm watching 'Rat Patrol'!"

Prine Happily Loses Pride

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — Andy Prine, leaning on a cane with his ankle in bandages, limped into the restaurant and slid, awkwardly, into the red leather booth.

"I may always carry a cane," he announced in jest, "I think it gives me much more character."

The Prine ankle had been sprained playing tennis but that's the only place Andy hurt, even though he had just learned his TV series The Road West will not be around on NBC-TV next season.

The cancellation of a TV show can be depressing for a young actor but Andy, who has been playing Timothy Prine on the show this season, was actually jubilant.

"A fantastic, wonderful thing just happened to me."

The cancellation of the show, he explained, had paved the way for him to join Bill Holden and Cliff Robertson in the cast of TV producer David Wolper's first big screen movie, The Devil's Brigade.

The story is about a small World War II task force trained and assigned to destroy a rocket-firing Nazi installation in the Bavarian Alps. Andy plays a young GI who teaches members of the task force how to ski and later saves Holden's life.

"The best role I've ever had," Andy enthused. "My chance to get rid of the west."

He was referring to The Road West and his previous TV series, Wide Country, about which he laughed:

"It's funny. When I came to Hollywood they decided I was a western type but I couldn't even ride a horse. I learned to ride and now I have to learn to ski."

Andy had only kind words to say about The Road West.

ANDREW PRINE

which he enjoyed and which he still thinks is a good show. "I can't turn on the writers or the producers or anyone. It wasn't their fault. The villain is Andy Griffith. We were opposite his show and he outpointed us in the ratings."

As a western type in Hollywood after his Broadway hit in "Look Homeward Angel," Andy still laughs about one of his first TV film shows with Richard Boone in Have Gun—Will Travel.

A scene called for Andy to be chained in an adobe jail cell from which he is freed when friends blow the building up with dynamite. "Boone was also directing," he says, "and I was a little surprised when he told me he was using real dynamite. He told me, 'don't worry, boy. Just cover your face. When she blows just pull the chains out of the wall — it's breakaway — and go through the wall.' Well, I went through the wall and it was great. Tough realism — that's what made that show a hit."

Kennedy Likes Daytime Show

HOLLYWOOD—Tom Kennedy came in from out of what he called "the great daytime ghetto" and echoed questions asked by others before him.

"Why does television look down at daytime television? Why is daytime television always ignored by the industry at Emmy Award time?"

After five years as master of ceremonies on NBC-TV's five times a week audience participation game show You Don't Say, Tom Kennedy is well qualified to debate the subject, long a gripe to all performers who labor in TV's daytime hours.

Never in Emmy history has there been a special category for daytime shows and this Tom believes is all wrong.

"The public doesn't hold this prejudice. Daytime TV fans have as high a regard for daytime shows as nighttime fans. To them there is no difference. The case of Johnny Carson is a typical example of how obvious the TV industry can be in ignoring its daytime ghetto. For years Johnny was a daytime personality as brilliant as he is now. But as a daytime performer he was ignored by the industry."

"Now he's up for awards every year. But you can't tell me," storms Tom, "that a performer suddenly becomes more talented just because he's on television after 6 p. m. It's because of TV's own snobbishness, this prejudice against daytime television."

shows, sponsors buy them and they sell products but the television industry looks down at the whole thing."

There can be no argument, Tom further states, about nighttime TV's bigger audiences. Over the five day period You Don't Say is on the air its audience out-numbers many of the big time night shows.

A Louisville, Ky., lad, Tom's goal in 1948 was radio. He graduated from a Hollywood radio school as a "combo" man—an announcer with an engineer's license. But when radio took a back seat to television in the early 50's, he switched to TV commercials and then to hosting home screen shows.

He was Jim Narz then (his real name) but with a brother, Jack Narz, also announcing TV shows, Jim changed his name to Tom Kennedy because an agency man thought he had a good Irish face. Since then people have said to him, "That was pretty shrewd, changing your name to Kennedy."

"But," says Tom, "I changed it long before the Kennedys became so prominent in Washington."

Fantasy Fails To Click During Stage 67 Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There comes, apparently, a time in the life of every maker of actuality programs for television when he feels he must do something about the American Indian and the bad deal he was dealt by our pioneering grandfathers.

NBC's "Project 20" Thursday night used its characteristic story-telling technique — archives material including old pictures — to show once again how the Indian of America's fertile Great Plains was shoved aside by the white arrivals, their buffalo herds decimated, the good lands expropriated.

The familiar story was hardly helped by the technique — burlesque prose of the narration on top of the old pictures.

At the outset, these pictures of Indian faces — fierce, gentle sad, angry, handsome, ugly, painted, scarred — plus film of the landscape, were interesting. But an hour was far too long for so much of the same thing.

Three of the brightest talents of the Broadway musical stage — writers Betty Comden and Adolph Green plus composer Jule Styne — slapped together a musical fantasy which was Thursday night's offering on ABC's "Stage 67."

Called "I'm Getting Married" it was the story of a young couple on the verge of matrimony when the course of true love is detoured by the boy's sudden promotion.

Anne Bancroft — an offbeat choice for comedy, song and dance — played the girl who is frightened into nightmarish fantasies consisting of hysterics broken by occasional snatches of song. Dick Shawn, perhaps aware of the weakness of his material, came on pretty strong as the boy in the case.

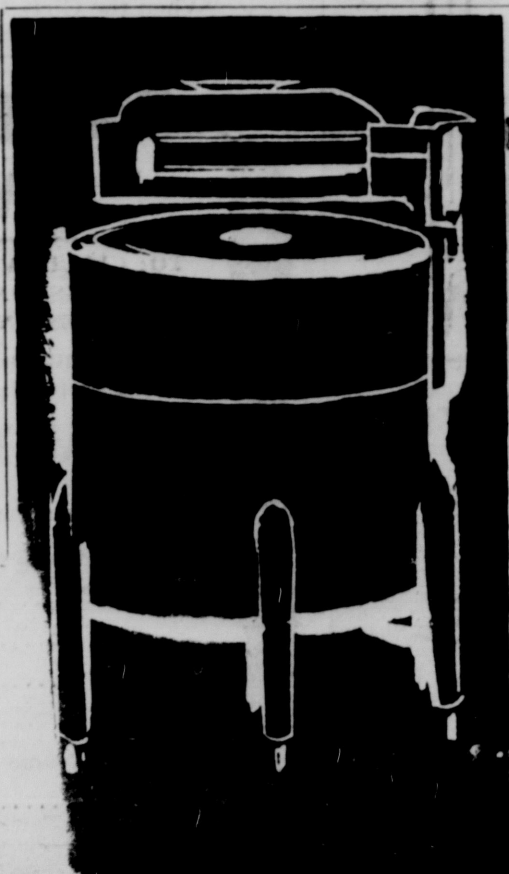

There were five or six musical numbers, none of which lingered beyond the final commercial. All in all, it just wasn't one of the series' happy hours.

Saturday — "America's Junior Miss Pageant," NBC, 8-9 p.m., finals live from Mobile, Ala.

Sunday — "Whose Right to Bear Arms?" NBC, 6:30-7:30 p.m. Documentary on the sale of firearms; "Annie Get Your Gun," NBC, 8:30-10, adaptation of the stage musical with Ethel Merman in her original role.

Quick War Ending

Milton Berle, who wasn't too happy with his short run on ABC-TV this past season, says he knows how to end the war in Vietnam. "Put it on ABC-TV and it will be over in 13 weeks."

DON HERBERT

Scientist in Every Kitchen

NEW YORK—When CBS decided to produce a national science test, it was quite natural for them to take a page from NBC's science experience and call on Don Herbert.

The master of the late, lamented Meet Mr. Wizard series is probably the most authoritative man in the country for translating the complexities of aerodynamics, biology and cybernetics into the jargon of the common man.

Herbert has been waging a persistent battle for two decades, to popularize science and humanize scientists, through the medium of television.

"Too many people," he said recently, "have a fear of science simply because they don't understand what is happening. Actually they are applying scientific principles to almost every activity of their daily lives and certainly they would enjoy life a little more if they understood what they were doing."

Herbert was assigned the task of translating scientific knowledge and experimentation into familiar household applications for the CBS National Science Test April 4. To do this he has taken much of the work being done in laboratories and field locations including underseas and outer space, and organized them into the daily chores of kitchen, work shop and garage.

One of the most important aspects of Herbert's career is making parents understand the meaning of a scientific career for their children.

"I've known people to tell me tearfully that their son wants to become a scientist as if the boy was sealing his own doom. The image of a man devoting 35 years to the molecular structure of a housefly's left eyelid, and mummifying himself in the process, is still too much with us.

"Certainly science is a demanding career and for that very reason alone parents should be delighted that their children

Impossible Is A Bit Heavier

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — Peter Lupus made his debut on the CBS-TV show Mission: Impossible carrying two suitcases through a hotel lobby.

So? So actor Wally Cox, who weighs 178 pounds, was curled up in one of them!

The other contained 178 pounds of lead for counter balance.

In old or new math, that's 356 pounds.

The way it looked in the scene Peter Lupus could have been a feather duster salesman on his way to work with his sample cases.

The way 28-year-old Lupus looks, on or off screen, is BIG and trim — six feet four, 220 pounds with a chest measurement of 50 inches above a 33 inch waist. He's Willie Armitage, the strong man in the group of secret agents assigned to those impossible missions and he isn't kidding.

He literally picked up Wally Cox plus 178 other pounds.

He's a body building enthusiast who works out in a gym after work every day, snacks on health foods between scenes, spends $100 a month on vitamins and food supplements and who has been "Mr. Indianapolis" in his home town of Indianapolis, "Mr. Galaxy" in the movie "Muscle Beach Party" and "Mr. Hercules" in an Italian movie about the strong man.

Managing a gymnasium in Hollywood paid for his acting lessons. In the gym he learned from customers Steve McQueen, Clint Eastwood and others "that for physical roles actors now realize they must look the part as well as give a good performance."

From Lurene Tuttle, his drama coach, he says he learned the secret of acting. "She taught me," he says, "to stay in your own truth—to be truthful even while taking a chance on being bad."

His "Mr. Hercules" role in the Italian movie won him four other strong man leads in spaghetti land where he says the people appreciate physical fitness more than Americans.

"But it was funny," he reports, "while working in those films people—including the film crewmen—started to actually believe my fictional feats of strength. For one scene I was supposed to break the ropes with which I had been tied down on the deck of a ship.

"When I tried to break them nothing happened. The crew, believing my strength, had used regular rope instead of the movie break-away kind. While I struggled with the ropes in the scene, the Italian director screamed, 'Break 'em, break 'em. What's the matter with you?'"

"I yelled back that the ropes were too d----- strong."

But any time you'd like to smuggle a friend in a suitcase across a border or something, just call on Peter Lupus, whose muscles even have have muscles.

Series Looks Good

Most of the leads in Warner Brothers "Hotel" have appeared on television frequently (Rod Taylor, Richard Conte and Merle Oberon have all been on series, and Kevin McCarthy and Melvin Douglas has been fairly frequent guests). So, during the "Hotel"

One More Time Wallenda Going To High Wire Again on Coast

By BOB THOMAS
APMovie-TV Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm going back on the high wire because a friend asked me to, and because—well, I like to hear the applause as much as anyone."

This was how Karl Wallenda explained why he is returning to circus performing at the age of 62. He will again be part of the famed "Flying Wallendas" during the engagement here of the Dobritch International Circus. But then he plans to retire once more.

Quit Last Fall

"My friend Walter Cronkite accused me of being another Sarah Bernhardt; she made farewell tours for 13 years," laughed Karl, the wiry, German-born scion of the aerialist family.

After 40-odd years on the high wire, Karl quit the act last fall. He explained: "My daughter Carla and her husband and brother-in-law could do everything that I could do, and I felt I wasn't being useful any more. Besides, I was getting older and perhaps I wasn't as alert as I used to be."

His manner belies that. Returning to the circus at the request of owner Al Dobritch, Wallenda seems as sharp as ever.

"After you get over 30 feet in height, you lose the perspective and it doesn't matter how high you are," he remarked, almost convincingly.

Born Into Circus

Karl was born into the circus; six generations of Wallendas have thrilled audiences in Germany and the United States. Karl "wanted to be somebody," and he pushed the act to new frontiers of danger, bringing it to the U.S. bigtime in the 1920s. The most important development in the act came at Madison Square Garden on April 5, 1928.

"We had always worked at 60-70 feet, with a net," he said. "But when we came into the Garden, we couldn't rig the wire high enough to make it seem dangerous. So I removed the net, and I haven't worked with one since. And I have had only one major accident in 40 years."

The accident happened five years ago in Detroit. The Wallendas were performing their most hazardous stunt, the three-decker pyramid. Four men stood on the wire with poles on their shoulders. Two other men stood on the poles, and above them a girl balanced on a chair atop a pole.

Something went wrong. The pyramid collapsed and fell to the arena floor. Two in-laws were killed instantly and Karl's son was paralyzed. Karl himself suffered severe injuries, but he was back in the act three months later.

"You have to exist, you have to survive," he philosophized.

Living Theater Returns

NEW YORK (AP)—The Living Theater, an experimental group which went to Europe in 1964 following income tax troubles here, is returning next fall for a limited engagement.

"We at Shotgun Arms don't feel our product lends itself to humorous TV commercials!"

Wedding Belle for Rydell

By FRANK LANGLEY

NEW YORK — Bobby Rydell said it rather casually and his agent almost dropped his teeth.

"I'll probably get engaged this summer and maybe by December, I'll get married."

And thus the very eligible millionaire singer announced he was trading his glamorous bachelorhood for wedded bliss.

"Isn't this sort of sudden?" he was asked. "Not really. She's a girl from home and we've been going together for eight years so I don't suppose it could be called sudden."

Of all the comparable young stars today, probably none is closer to his home and family than 25-year old Bobby, and so it's not surprising that he has passed up the thousands of glamour gals with whom he is so often in contact for the gal next door.

Bobby was preparing for a trip to Mobile, Ala., when he let the secret out. There he will co-host the America's Junior Miss Pageant which will be seen on NBC-TV tonight. After that he's off to Puerto Rico for a night club date, but first he'll dash back to Penn Valley, Penna. for a few days with the family.

Bobby's greatest pride and joy is the house he recently bought for his folks in the small community near Philadelphia.

"Lots of people tell me I should live in New York or Los Angeles," he said. "But I'm a homebody at heart and I just couldn't live anywhere else."

"And what's more when I do get married, we are going to stay right there with Mom and Dad, Grandma and Grandpa."

Bobby's refusal to live anywhere but home, including the hub of hubs of his profession, is about the only concession he makes to his career. His solid sober attitude is reflected in his everyday activities towards his work and his future.

"I most enjoy working with the old pros," he said. "They have so much to offer a young guy like me." And it seems the "old pros" enjoy working with Bobby. He has entered the tight circle of Red Skelton's close friends and in recent weeks has shared the night club circuit spotlight with both Jack Benny and George Burns.

Asked if he had any fears about working with the likes of these, Bobby declared there was little in this world that scared him.

"Except getting married," he said. "Boy that is scary."

Too Foreign

Richard Conte, who plays a blackmailing house detective in "Hotel," began his career on Broadway as Nicholas Conte. After a success in the theater, he was signed by Hollywood where they decided Nicholas sounded "too foreign." So they switched his name to Richard, which "sounds 100 per cent Anglo-Saxon," he says. "I didn't care. They even wanted to change the spelling to Conty, but I didn't want that. And look at some of the names they have now. They don't make Nicholas Conte sound so foreign any more."
